

Emil Malak Wrote!

Emil Malak

I am NOT a scientist or an economist, but I do conduct a lot of research. I speak with many experts in various fields and I love acquiring knowledge. The opinions expressed in this article are my own. They are straight to the point, hard hitting and presented in a take no prisoners' manner. I am NOT an anti-vaxxer, nor do I subscribe to any crazy conspiracy theories. On the contrary, I am a proponent of vaccines so long as they are safe. Vaccines have played an important part in the safety of the public and have eradicated the threat of diseases like polio and the measles, and we need to continue research to develop new vaccines in the future.

No political angle; only opinions based on science, facts and historical events

I have written 17 coronavirus op-eds since February 2020. Currently I am in the process of combining them in a booklet/ diary to be released soon.

Acknowledgment

I want to personally thank the “invisible scientist” who prefers to remain anonymous but has been my main source for the scientific information I have written about in my articles. He also happens to be a true friend and a most trusted loyal confidant. Without having had the benefit of his knowledge and expertise to instruct me on the science surrounding the coronavirus, I never could have learned all of this on my own, nor been able to write these op-eds. He is a brilliant man and has been my teacher.

Urgent Update May 5, 2021

A super immune escape coronavirus

Will India become the future graveyard of the world and an immune escape coronavirus factory?

Complete immune escape

We have the superbug, present in our hospitals, are we now on the verge of getting “A super immune escape coronavirus”?

I spoke many times in my last op-eds of the grave possibilities of "a super immune escape coronavirus" mechanism if the infection were to keep on increasing its transmission, causing what could become a contagious, lethal, and deadly mutant.

We already have a superbug roaming in our hospitals, are we now seeing the creation of "A super immune escape coronavirus" become a reality?

As I write this, I fear the latest wave in India could trigger a mutation that creates a unique strand that is resistant to vaccines. What is taking place right now reminds me of a science-fiction horror movie that could become a reality sooner than we expect. What is going to happen if the entire 1.4 billion Indian population were to become infected within the next two years? It could conceivably create an untreatable new mutation, soon spreading throughout the entire world. It is time to wake up and get ready for what may be to come, " A super immune escape coronavirus."

Will autumn of 2021 be the most devastating third wave of coronavirus variants?

The misinformation regarding COVID vaccines will be the downfall this winter

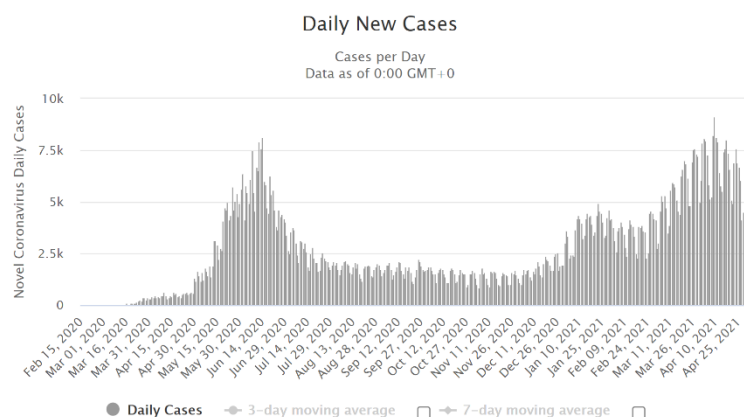

Someone must be on a hallucinogenic if they believe these current COVID vaccines will protect them against what is coming by the end of 2021. Between now and year end we will continue to see variants, variants, and more variants. So far it has been easy, as if we are all being played by the coronavirus. The pharmaceutical companies are lying to the public by selling us all a hopeless solution called a coronavirus vaccine. They have yet to provide a shred of concrete, conclusive data; it's as if we are all human guinea pigs. Please carefully read the information below. Imagine what will happen when the Chilean and Indian mutants which are likely already established in the west are contagious together in one country becoming much more widespread and deadlier. We will be talking about the ability of the new Indian variant to overcome masks, social distancing, isolation, hygiene, and hand washing as it rips through the civilization. Who will be next, the U.S., Europe, Japan, or some other region?

While this is my last op-ed on the coronavirus, current developments unfolding before our eyes on both sides of the world have compelled me to add on this urgent update. Sadly, as I had predicted would be the case, India and Chile are currently being ravaged by viral mutations quite possibly because of the ongoing global vaccination efforts. Hopefully, this is not the opening act for what we could be seeing take place throughout the entire world this fall. My biggest fear is that continuing to push for worldwide vaccinations during the pandemic will be like pouring gasoline on a fire.

The variants are becoming more lethal and infection rates and death are increasing, even among young people. The vaccines are rendered futile and could even be harmful. Why are Pfizer, Moderna, and Johnson and Johnson not speaking out about the effectiveness of their vaccines against the current strains? Only AstraZeneca has come forward and confirmed that their vaccine is not effective against the Indian mutant. Why are regulators not demanding answers and holding them accountable?

Chile was the envy of the world in vaccinating its citizens, but now the virus is ripping through the nation with ease bringing much harm and death

Since my April 2020 op-ed, I have been warning that the coming vaccines could potentially cause more harm than good. Today, just a few months since the Chilean government began an aggressive vaccination program that boasted one of the highest vaccination rates in the world, their intensive care units are once again filled to near capacity with very sick COVID patients, many of whom are fighting for their lives. Chile's execution of their vaccination campaign was the envy of the world, having administered the vaccine to 40% of their population by mid-April, more than any other country except for Israel and the U.K., and yet, here they are in deep trouble once again. The United States and Europe are committing the same mistake as Chile. They are undertaking extensive efforts to vaccinate their masses and are beginning to relax their restrictions. I am fearful the same fate awaits the United States, Central and South America, Europe and other countries come October/November of this year, as we are seeing unfold in Chile today. Why is the media being so quiet about the recent resurgence of coronavirus infections in Chile? What are they hiding? Could they be trying to cover up the failure of the vaccines? The numbers do not lie. Chile is worse off today after having vaccinated nearly half their population than they were a year ago before the vaccines.

Some believe the Chilean virus is the result of up to seven new COVID strains that began with the Brazilian variant and mutated seven times into a new Chilean strain. The Chilean strain has no age boundaries affecting old and young alike, whether they are 18, 26, 32, or 80 years of age. It is extremely worrying that we could be seeing antibody dependent enhancement (ADE) taking hold and using the vaccine to speed up the spread of infection and inflicting much greater harm than before. For sure the Chilean strain is already well established in South, Central and North Americas as well as Europe. We need to stop all flights and halt travel between these regions as well as Canada, Australia, and far east nations like Japan. It only takes one infected person to begin to spread the disease throughout an entire country.

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=EHAx0p2EXis>

<https://www.cnbc.com/2021/04/19/covid-chiles-coronavirus-cases-hit-record-levels-despite-vaccine-rollout.html>

India is being devastated by a triple mutation, We will see one million daily infections before the end of 2021

All flights to and from India should be halted for one year

Are we being told the truth? The Indian triple mutant is running rampant and devastating an already impoverished nation. Are Indian authorities telling the public everything they know? As I previously predicted we are already seeing new viral strains develop into multiple new mutations. The current Indian mutant could already be established in the United States and parts of Europe. If so, it is already too late to contain, and we will see the fallout firsthand this coming autumn. Once a triple mutation establishes itself in the west it will not be able to be contained.

<https://www.msn.com/en-us/news/us/india-coronavirus-deaths-hit-record-high-as-hospitals-plead-for-supplies/vi-BB1gnPCM>

<https://news.yahoo.com/india-triple-mutant-variant-covid-205400099.html>

A fly on the wall in a government policy office told me we could be looking at a possible plague that has no regard for current COVID vaccines or the ineffective therapeutics developed thus far. If such a deadly strain does manifest itself our economic system could be on the verge of collapse. We cannot keep trying to solve this by printing money and passing out stimulus checks; something must give soon. I am worried that the coronavirus has been exploited by government leaders to deny us many of our basic human rights and freedoms, eventually leading down the road to totalitarianism. Widespread civil disobedience could be just around the corner.

The World Health Organization (WHO) has failed in their mission by being “reactive” to the circumstances rather than “proactive” and help prevent the current predicament. As the saying goes, they were “a day late and a dollar short.” No one knows which Indian and Chilean variants are causing the latest outbreak. It is time for the WHO to identify these lethal variants

Boris Johnson UK Prime Minister, not so fast

I am extremely grateful to the United Kingdom for having provided me such great opportunities many years ago as a British national. I was an old school believer in the great iron lady, Margaret Thatcher, and I am extremely supportive of current Prime Minister Johnson and applaud his efforts in trying to deal with the coronavirus, but unfortunately his scientific advisors got it wrong. Despite having vaccinated two thirds of the population, sooner or later the current vaccines will show themselves to be ineffective against the variants coming from India, Chile, and other places where the virus is mutating. I believe those new mutations could already be established in the UK. As the British government prepares to reopen their economy and relax lockdowns, they must be very careful to not repeat the same mistakes made by Chile. That country is currently being ravaged by the coronavirus mutations, and I suspect we will soon see similar events unfold in Israel. Easing up now without proper and adequate testing measures in place could be devastating as these mutations will come back more vigorously than before. Read my previous articles and see for yourselves the recommendations I have made, which if implemented would allow us to function safely within a fully reopened economy.

Will vaccines protect us against multiple mutations, or will they cause more harm?

The jury is still out on the coronavirus vaccination debate. Many argue that if the vaccines do not prevent someone from infection, it will at least lessen its severity, what about our own immune system?

However, if these vaccines prove to be ineffective against the Indian and Chilean mutations or other new strains then that theory simply will not hold up. Instead, the virus could fight back by creating a variant that will overcome the effects of the vaccine in a person's body. Then the new strain will potentially spread far and wide causing even more damage. You must never attempt to vaccinate during a pandemic. You must wait until the pandemic subsides naturally, or you run the risk of making matters far worse through antibody dependent enhancement (ADE).

A warning to the west

We now have two new strains becoming well established, the Indian and the Chilean variants. Within the next four months these strains will be spreading more rapidly as we relax our lockdowns. This fall does not look safe for all of us in America, Canada, or Europe. Surely it will lead to more lockdowns and the start of a depression. Remember, it only takes one person to infect an entire country. We need to view the coronavirus as a disease that is here to stay and learn to treat it accordingly as we do with other diseases like cancer and HIV. Hopefully an effective and successful therapeutic treatment will be developed sooner rather than later.

Now we are being told that we need to deal with the coronavirus the same way we deal with the seasonal flu, by getting annual flu shots. To lump this virus together with the flu is a grave mistake because the two are very different viruses. Coronavirus is more contagious and more deadly than influenza and you cannot treat them with the same cookie cutter approach. To do so is nothing more than a way for vaccine makers to pocket even more billions. There is no evidence to support that the annual flu vaccine even works. Every year vaccine manufacturers are just guessing as to what the new variants will look like and there is no data to support the flu vaccines' effectiveness.

Yesterday in Vancouver, Canada, health officers announced that four weeks of vaccinations has caused the infection rates to drop. How the hell can they make such an unfounded claim? There is zero data to support those representations. If rates are down, how can they be certain the decline is not our immune system doing what it's supposed to do? To credit the vaccine without any evidence is a complete misrepresentation of true scientific data. Scientists need to leave partisan politics aside and stick to facts that are backed by data. They are causing us harm. We need to wait and see what will happen in the coming months before we take any victory laps. Which country will become the next Chile? Perhaps Israel or the UK.

Will an eminent domain proposal get the vaccine manufacturers to downplay the effectiveness of their vaccines against the variants?

Since my first article on the pandemic back in February 2020, my predictions have been the subject of much criticism, especially the predictions I made that the future coronavirus vaccines would fail. We are in the process of compiling all 17 articles and publishing them into one book.

The vaccine manufacturers propaganda machine will soon be in full force, as I predict they will begin to reverse their message and admit their vaccines are far less effective on the new variants like the Indian and Chilean mutants. Their fat cash cow is about to go dry, and we can expect to see lengthy litigation between vaccine companies and various administrations in the US and the EU, as those governments attempt to strip them of the intellectual property rights in the name of the pandemic.

Finally, we will begin to get the truth regarding the ineffectiveness of their vaccines against the mutated strains. Something we knew all along and I have been saying over and over for the past year. It is about time they admit the ineptness of their vaccines, especially against the new mutations. Watch how hypocritically they will begin to change their tune over the next few months. It's all about the money. Our health is only important to them when they are making money.

Suspension of legal protection of property rights for coronavirus vaccines, total madness.

The Biden Administration backed plan to suspend the property rights of pharmaceutical companies in the name of COVID will destroy over a quarter of the wealth in the United States and Europe, which is generated by the pharmaceutical industry. They are not sequestering the technology but are attempting to make intellectual property secrets openly available to China, India, and the rest of the world. During these tumultuous financial times, what the economy needs is help; not the targeted destruction of our own pharmaceutical industry in favor of China, who are notorious intellectual property thieves. Rather making China richer, we should be protecting our own workers.

This intellectual property rights waiver supposedly aimed at vaccines will open a Pandora's box, eventually expanding into therapeutics, forcing western pharmaceutical companies to reveal their trade secrets. Have they gone MAD? Much of the GDP from the American economy is generated by a three-legged stool comprised of three main industries, electronics/software, financial services and pharmaceutical life science development and manufacturing. This move will cripple the pharmaceutical leg of the stool and accelerate an economic collapse.

The leftists in the administration are harming the President and his team as well as the country. They need to be kicked out before more damage is caused. We are hurting our own inventors and crippling the American innovation the country was built on.

Most western pharmaceutical companies do a great job developing medicines and pharmacological solutions for the public

While I have been extremely critical of the coronavirus vaccines and the manufacturers, I do NOT at all agree with the proposed waiver of intellectual property rights that is currently being discussed by the World Trade Organization (WTO) and several governments including the United States and the European Union. Inventors should always have their intellectual property rights protected. The WTO and the government leaders floating around this idea are merely using the pandemic as an excuse for governments to steal intellectual property from private companies. They are exploiting the COVID-19 crisis under the guise of humanitarianism for their own malicious gains.

If they succeed in this thievery, the consequences will be far-reaching, even beyond the coronavirus. They will stifle future pharmaceutical innovation and drug development. Free market choices are imperative for the good of mankind. Without the promise of potential financial gains, lifesaving drugs and equipment would never be developed. It is not a crime to make money for doing something good, but it is a crime to steal a company's property rights. Governments need to continue to encourage and support medical research and innovation. Forcibly waiving their intellectual property rights is counterproductive and will make vital inventions worthless. I fully support the pharmaceutical industry in this fight against the current U.S. presidential administration for their constitutional rights.

Are we seeing the beginning of legalized theft by western governments? To strip away property rights and make them freely available could be a big step towards government centralization and nationalization as we see take place in totalitarian regimes. I disagree with Katherine Tai, the US Trade Representative for the Biden Administration who justified this ill-advised policy by saying, "extraordinary times call for extraordinary measures." I will respond to Ms. Tai by saying, "extraordinary times call for more extraordinary inventions and innovations."

A vaccine waiver does not make economic or geopolitical sense

If this policy is indeed enacted, China and India will be able to use the intellectual property belonging to coronavirus vaccine makers to legally produce billions of vaccines at a much lower cost than western pharmaceutical companies, and with far less quality control. They would effectively kill the competition and monopolize coronavirus vaccines. We should be bending over backwards to protect our own pharmaceutical companies against unfair competition, not hand over their patents to China.

It would be a major geopolitical mistake for America and Europe to allow the production of the Pfizer, Moderna, and Johnson and Johnson's vaccines to be legally produced by China, which of course will be used as a bargaining chip and an economic weapon to supply to the poor countries. China must be laughing all way to the bank. They do not have to exert any effort to steal our intellectual property; it is being handed to them on a platter.

The proposed waiver is not just limited to vaccines but includes all current and future therapeutic coronavirus treatments

This could destroy the pharmaceutical industry and the development of future life-saving drugs

It was reported that the United States will back a proposal made by India and South Africa last year to waive intellectual property protections under the Trade-Related Aspects of Intellectual Property Rights (TRIPS) Agreement. The proposal calls for the suspension of international protections for patents, copyrights, industrial designs, trade secrets and proprietary materials, “in relation to the prevention, containment, or treatment of COVID-19 until widespread vaccination is in place globally and the majority of the world’s population has developed immunity.”

The Biden administration and EU leaders have declared Eminent Domain and the suspension of intellectual property rights for all covid related treatments and vaccines.

The only foreseeable solution to the coronavirus is the development of a therapeutic cocktail capable of treating the variants. There are hundreds of therapeutic options currently available that deal with inflammatory diseases that are used to help slow the progression of lung inflammation from the virus. This waiver policy is written so broadly that they can theoretically steal the rights away from anything that helps contain the virus. They may as well just shut down the industry and hand it over to China who is always stealing trade secrets and IP rights anyway. Some of the anti-inflammatory therapeutic options currently available are:

Hydroxychloroquine, Chloroquine, Remdesivir, Favipiravir, Molnupiravir, Ivermectin, Oleandrin, lopinavir, Ritovanir, Dexamethasone, Tocilizumab, Baricitinib, Fluxoxamine, Lenzilimab, Exo-Cd24, Colchine, Azyrthromycin, Bamlanivimab, Estesevimab, Budesonide, and so on and so on...

The madness must be stopped before it ever goes into effect. Whether it will take legislation by the House and Senate or an act of the Supreme Court, but it cannot be allowed to move forward.

I am warning the USA and Europe; their romanticizing of this waiver of intellectual property rights for coronavirus vaccines and treatments could have dire consequences on the future of our great western pharmaceuticals. They must BACK OFF! Pharmaceutical companies in the west are protected by their property rights. Those rights cannot just be taken away with the stroke of a pen unless they are doing under false pretenses to cover up their true intent to move towards the nationalization of pharmaceuticals

<https://www.rt.com/news/523049-vaccines-patent-europe-leyen-covid19/>
<https://www.ipwatchdog.com/2021/05/05/tai-says-united-states-will-back-india-southafrica-proposal-waive-ip-rights-trips/id=133224/>

Have a majority of scientists ignored cold, scientific facts in an effort to please the masters that support them, and engage in partisan politics?

As a writer, my first and foremost responsibility is to present the truth regardless of how painful it may be. We are living in an age of social network slavery, where some at the top are trying to control the narrative and regulate what is being written. It's only a matter of time before this form of censorship backfires on the suppressors. The coronavirus has galvanized partisan politics over true science, profits over health, and has shone a bright light on the incompetence of many presumed medical experts. Any scientists that believe vaccines are the answer to eradicating the spread of the coronavirus's ever-expanding variants, are gravely mistaken, and are bringing their profession into disrepute. The reality is these vaccines are likely hastening the creation of variants.

What is going to happen nine to twelve months into this global push for vaccinations? We know the answer; more coronavirus infections, more lock downs and quite possibly civilian uprisings against controlling political systems that misled the public into believing vaccines were the answer.

Could mRNA vaccines permanently alter our genomic DNA?

If that turns out to be the case, years from now how might it affect future pregnancies, male fertility, p53 cancer, and many other possible scenarios? The media's irresponsible narrative that vaccinations are the only way to deal with the coronavirus pandemic will prove to be very harmful. They are not just ignorant, but are acting idiotically in a way that will have dangerous consequences for the public while they pass themselves off as some new breed of scientific experts.

Sadly, we may be headed for an unprecedented health disaster of our own making. If these vaccines do indeed alter our future DNA, the results could be catastrophic on a global scale. I am not angry, but I am very saddened and fearful for what may lie ahead in the future for our children.

Total Vaccine Madness

1. Will we see one million daily infections in India by the end of 2021? What about the Indian double mutant? It is a simple mathematical formula

India is one of the most populated countries in the world, second only to China. Much of the country is overcrowded, dirty, and unhygienic. There is no social distancing and no significant adherence to mask wearing. The Indian subcontinent is no stranger to infections and viruses. The country's unhygienic conditions and high rate of poverty have made them a breeding ground for disease throughout their history. Viruses in India would come and go, eventually disappearing. But this time there is an exponential difference, which is this virus's genetic mutations that make it much more infectious and deadlier. The current mutation of the coronavirus has genetically evolved to the point where it can overcome lockdowns, masks and other measures taken to prevent the spread. Will the Indian mutant become a 21st century plague that can potentially wipe out 25% of the world's population? In previous articles, most recently in December I predicted that coronavirus mutations could evolve into just that.

Could we see three million infections a day in India? Variants are an exponential numbers game

The facts speak for themselves and seemingly contradict the Indian government's vast undercounting of what is really happening regarding COVID-19. Actual hospitalization numbers are skyrocketing beyond what is being reported. Additionally, fake COVID-19 negative certificates supposedly from reputable labs are being made and distributed, further muddying the already murky waters. The true number of daily infections may be closer to 3 million than half a million new cases per day.

Why should the west be concerned? The ever-expanding variants make it a numbers game. The more variants are created the more likely the chance of infection. More infections result in higher replication rates creating new mutations. Breaking it down to simple mathematics, infection rates are proportional. The more infections the more unchecked mutations develop, creating a whole new set of problems for the world.

The question we need answered is, have the coronavirus mutations caused less, equal, or more infections The Spanish Flu was a swine flu, not a coronavirus. It had a bad first wave, a horrible second wave and then eventually began to die down during the third wave. The coronavirus waves are getting worse and worse with the mutations proving to be even more contagious. The next widespread wave could be as deadly as what we are seeing now in India and Chile. Having twenty million people a week in India infected means over one billion Indians could be subjected to mutations that are stronger than previous strains

<https://www.npr.org/2021/05/08/995021124/india-sees-deadliest-day-of-pandemic-with-covid-19-deaths-topping-4-000>

Black Fungus adds a new complication among India's current COVID disaster

Dr. Akshay Nair, an eye surgeon from Mumbai has already seen about 40 cases of Mucormycotic, the rare infection known as black fungus since April. Black fungus is a potentially life-threatening infection that has recently afflicted many COVID-19 patients in India, especially those with diabetes and the immunocompromised such as those with cancer, HIV, and other diseases. Doctors believe mucormycotic, which has an overall mortality rate of 50%, may be being triggered using steroids, a life-saving treatment for severe and critically ill Covid-19 patients.

"Diabetes lowers the body's immune defenses, coronavirus exacerbates it, and then steroids which help fight Covid-19 act like fuel to the fire," says Dr Nair. Fortunately, Mucormycotic is not contagious, however the disease could spread rapidly through the body including to the eyes and the brain, often requiring the patient to have their eyes removed.

Remember I did predict earlier in one of my op-eds of the possibility of the coronavirus turning to a Plague.

The Indian mutant has no regard for social distancing, masks, lockdowns, or hygiene

We need to take a completely different approach to what is happening in India than what we have done in the west. It boils down to simple math. On the one hand you have India with the second largest population in the world. On the other hand, you have the coronavirus. People in India have not changed their behavior by any appreciable measure over the past several months, not that it will matter much soon. The virus's mild infectious properties have increased greatly due to a double genetic mutation. The question now is whether what I predict will be taking place in India shortly, could be repeated in the west since international flights were not stopped sooner. Is it now too late to contain the Indian double mutant and prevent it from ripping through the rest of the world? Things could get much worse in India over the coming weeks and months and in other parts of the world soon after if that mutant does mutate again into an even more infectious and deadlier strain. Could the Indian mutant combine with the English variant and create a much more contagious and lethal new variant? I look to the scientists for an answer to that important question.

The fact that we continue to vaccinate in the west is very troubling. As I said before, it is a grave mistake to vaccinate during a pandemic. Doing so could lead to the creation of new and more lethal variants as we are seeing unfold now. Yes, many have accused me of things like being dramatic, overreacting, supporting conspiracy theories and more. Let's wait and see where we are by November of this year and evaluate everything then. We will see what happens in places like Israel, United Kingdom, United States, Dubai, and other countries that rushed to vaccinate their populations. We will not be able to vaccinate ourselves out of the coming onslaught of coronavirus variants.

I urge people not to blame their governments who are doing everything they can to keep their people safe. No leader wishes their constituents to have to endure this disease. Blame the virus that is so far outsmarting all human measures. I would not want to be in the shoes of India's Prime Minister today. You are damned if you do, damned if you don't! So far there is no winning formula to defeat this virus.

2. Are the vaccines changing COVID from a pandemic to being endemic?

You do not vaccinate during a pandemic. If you do, the coronavirus will respond to the vaccine by mutating into a new variant. Instead of letting the coronavirus degrade and die out like all previous pandemics i.e. Spanish flu, MERS and SARS, the vaccine enables the virus's defense mechanism to counteract by creating a variant through mutation that becomes more lethal and continues to reinvent itself as long you keep vaccinating.

Are vaccines working?

If vaccines are indeed effective, why are vaccinated people still required to wear masks and social distance? Isn't the stated purpose of the vaccine to give us protection and return our lives to normal? Either the vaccines protect us, or they don't. Officials are playing games with us putting our safety at risk and using us like human guinea pigs.

The vaccines have already started to fail. Imagine eight to nine months after vaccination, you are now contracting the coronavirus. What will they tell us next? We need to take the vaccines every six months.

The more we vaccinate, the more we miss the exact timing of second dose because of supply shortage, the more we create a mutant factory.

Simply, the vaccine causes the virus to mutate, creating a new variant that escapes the virus.

We will keep on closing the economy every few months, with no end in sight. It is a revolving door of new mutations.

Vaccines cannot catch up with these ongoing new variants.

On top of all, no one knows what insight is for short, medium, and long-term side effects because of these experimental vaccines?

Stop this vaccine madness.

Will vaccines protect us?

A very dear friend of mine for whom I have the utmost respect, and hold in the highest regard got into a very heated, healthy argument with me recently regarding the opinions about the coronavirus vaccines I have expressed in my op-eds. When I asked him why he took the vaccine, his response was that if he gets infected with the virus his illness will not be so severe. I then asked him if he was at all concerned about the possibility of antibody dependent enhancement which happened during animal studies while trying to develop a MERS vaccine. "That is fear mongering," he shouted, "there is no proof!" I reminded him that we do not have any solid data whatsoever about how this current crop of vaccines will respond to the variants already in existence or the ones developing as we speak. I also pointed to debacle taking place in India. None of this mattered to my friend as he repeated his blind support for these vaccines and warned me that I should stop writing op-eds that he referred to as "very damaging." With neither one of us succeeding in changing the other's mind, we amicably agreed to disagree and wait and see the true outcome of this vaccine campaign which should be known by the end of this year.

Fortunately, at least for the time being we still live in a society where people can make their own choices and freely state their opinions, though it is becoming increasingly difficult to take a stand on an issue contrary to the social and political agenda of the mainstream media outlets.

Either, I will be proven totally wrong, which I truly hope is the case, or we will be facing a human tragedy like we have not seen before when billions of vaccinated people could become seriously ill after getting infected with new variants. As a result of the vaccines, the new variants will speed through the body like a car driving on an expressway causing serious harm to the patient's health and even the risk of death.

I may have lost a friend, and if that is the case, I can assure you he isn't the first. Several other "friends" have accused me of supporting conspiracy theories in my articles and of being an anti-vaxxer. I am NOT an anti-vaxxer, I support and encourage vaccines, so long as they are properly developed using years of solid data to ensure their safety and efficacy. What I am NOT is a robot or a sheep that blindly follows its government masters to the slaughter. I have always been and will continue to be an independent thinker, unlike the current society of idiots and social media misinformation slaves.

3. Will vaccine passports protect us?

There is no solid scientific proof that vaccine passports will protect us against the newest coronavirus variant from the ongoing viral mutations. So far, all we have is predictions made by compromised scientists that lack scientific data. They are simply following the lead of their political masters and towing the establishment line to support vaccines at all costs. Science should be based only on reliable data. Guessing games and unfounded predictions should be left to fortune tellers and magicians. It is idiotic to say that a vaccine passport is needed to protect us against the coronavirus when there is absolutely no data to support such a stupid claim.

Vaccine's passport is the first step toward exerting compulsory control over the masses and the beginning of a totalitarian regime.

4. Are Pfizer and Moderna a failed experimental gene therapy and not a vaccine?

Where is the historical data?

There is zero data and no real comparable historic events upon which to rely. Possibilities are not science. What proof do we have that vaccines will prevent us from contracting coronavirus? Our immune system has already proven to be much more effective, over 98%, while mRNA technology has never been successful in the past. Animal models have failed. That is the reason Moderna, who started in 2010 had never before brought any successful mRNA treatment or vaccine to market. A vaccine as per the CDC guidelines produces immunity on a specifically targeted disease. The person is exposed to a small amount of the disease in order for their body to create antibodies and give them immunity to that disease. So far, there is no proof that a person previously infected with the coronavirus will have immunity from reinfection or be unable to spread the virus. The vaccine manufacturers tell us it should provide immunity but they are not prepared to give any guarantees. Generally, before a vaccine is given the go ahead by a responsible government health authority, it is required to have conducted successful animal testing, followed by three clinical human trials. The coronavirus vaccines have NEVER undergone proper animal testing or adequate human clinical trials. All the typical requirements were waived by the various health authorities. The question we must address now is whether the mRNA technology is in fact a vaccine or is it an experimental gene therapy? If it is concluded to be gene therapy, then are the manufacturers protected under the liability protections granted to vaccine makers against vaccine injuries and deaths?

5. Are we expected to blindly believe what they are telling us?

These so-called scientific conclusions that are not based on reliable data cannot be believed. It is a risky game to approve and unleash unproven medicines like the current vaccines on a global scale amid a pandemic. Pfizer and Moderna are using the first of its kind mRNA vaccines and Johnson & Johnson is using an adenovirus vaccine that still has many unanswered questions. We need at least 6 years of data to ensure a vaccine is safe for public use. It seems that corporate profits by the vaccine makers is the driving force ahead of health and safety. They have parlayed the “con-demic” into billions and billions of dollars.

6. How do we know it's not our immune system?

So far, our immune systems have proven to be more than 98% effective against the virus and death rates are just over 1% of confirmed cases. The vaccine's effectiveness is less than our own immune system, and even worse against the new variants.

7. Is Pfizer's second vaccine dose increasing infection and death rates for people under 50?

Time will tell, but I expect my worst fears may soon be confirmed. The Pfizer and Moderna vaccines' second booster could have dangerous consequences if a person becomes infected with the virus. What are you hiding? The risks include the possibility of autoimmune disease, antibody dependent enhancement, and even death.

8. Why is Pfizer beginning COVID-19 vaccine trials on children under 12?

What responsible parent would subject their child to such a dangerous trial?

It is absurd to even consider vaccine trials on children when ALL the data suggests children are at a very low risk of getting COVID and even lower chance of having serious symptoms. For Pfizer to begin trials of an unproven vaccine on young children with so little historical data regarding its safety is sickening. Considering how mild the virus is on children to begin with, the vaccine is sure to be much more detrimental to children's health than the virus would be. Another serious concern is the potential side effects that could surface years later.

9. What can we expect nine to twelve months after being vaccinated?

We can expect to see many of the people currently being vaccinated become infected with the virus in the next year or sooner. The scary part is not knowing how serious their symptoms will be and how the coronavirus will affect them. Many will likely experience serious health complications and autoimmune diseases.

10. Are coronavirus vaccine makers guilty of misleading us and pushing a major misinformation campaign?

Promotional campaigns by vaccine manufacturers are self-serving and based upon unfounded data. They are dishonest and purposely endanger our present and future health. By the end of 2021 we will know just how poorly the vaccines have performed. It seems that focusing on profits without having a conscience has become the bad face of capitalism and has brought the scientific watchdog community into disrepute. The World Health Organization (WHO) has forgotten that their first and foremost mission is to protect our health, not to dance to the tune of their political masters, large pharmaceutical companies and conflicted, self-serving donors that fund them. The social media and TV news reporting are complicit and must stop giving their blind support to vaccines and open the debate about the harm the coronavirus vaccines could and is causing.

11. Is New York City becoming the new epicenter for coronavirus variants?

It seems that once again New York City will lead the U.S. in coronavirus cases, this time because of infections from the new variants. Bad scientific advice and poor political judgement will once again kick start new coronavirus variant infections that could cost America even more lives than before. America, Europe, and the world are now entering a profoundly serious stage in the fight against coronavirus due to the variants. The current vaccines were designed for COVID-19 and are now rendered obsolete as they are far less effective against the current viral strains.

12. What is the solution?

NO MORE LOCKDOWNS! We need to open every state's economy and get people back to work and children back to school. Let's enact strict testing guidelines having everyone tested every three days. Limit transit between states and restrict borders for three months to minimize the spread of the new variants. Close off international travels for three months and suspend all immigration for now. Stop vaccines and shift the focus towards developing an effective therapeutic cocktail in lieu of the less effective drugs tried so far like Remdesivir, Hydroxychloroquine, Ribavirin, Interferon, Dexamethasone, Hydrocortisone.

13. Where are America, Canada, and Europe headed economically? (unlucky number 13)

The western world is headed for a depression like the world has never seen. The Great Depression of October 1929 will pale in comparison to what is coming. If the world does not wake up and take effective action, the dollar will be devalued by 50%. Inflation will result in the loss of millions of jobs. I recommend people stock up on essential items and non-perishable food products. They should have six months of emergency supplies on hand. Governments need to prepare their military forces to handle civil unrest and massive demonstrations. The stock market will collapse to a tenth of its current value and cryptocurrencies will become worthless. Silver, not gold will be the new currency standard. Countries that have an ample supply of food, water, and strong agriculture with fare much better than those that do not.

Video of Dr. Ryan Cole, CEO Cole Diagnostics
<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=oA-fTaGadyc>

14. Do we have a new University degree in the art of lying?

Having a conversation with a concierge, here are some of his comments "Emil, I pay my taxes, my rent, my food, heating, and electricity bills, leaving me with very little left for savings and holidays, but I get by, I am ok, I am happy, only health is what we all need.

How come since the coronavirus started, the politicians, the government agencies, some scientists have all been marginalized by the greedy vaccine manufacturers and the story keeps on changing like the wind?

Lies, lies and more lies are the new world we live in. Where has the honesty, integrity and decency gone? I guess to their bank accounts.

May be our children and grandchildren should be getting a University degree in the art of lying so they can have an above average living standard in this future sad world.

We of the old school are leaving behind a corrupt, unethical, and materialist world for the future of our unfortunate children."

15. How do you measure the effectiveness of the coronavirus vaccine?

Pfizer just announced their COVID vaccine is safe for use in children and 100% effective. What does that mean and how do they measure effectiveness? Pfizer claims in a study of 2260 adolescents 12 to 15 years old, vaccinations led to a higher protective antibody response than in adults and was 100% effective against symptomatic disease. How are they measuring effectiveness? Did it include measuring natural neutralizing antibodies in the children before they administered the vaccine, or just after the vaccine? We do not know what minimum number of antibodies are necessary to protect children from infection. So how can we know if them getting more antibodies through a vaccine is even necessary to stop them from getting the coronavirus? The same rationale applies to adults. Vaccine manufacturers have refused to guarantee their vaccines will protect us from getting infected. What is the point of getting the vaccine if they can't guarantee it will protect us?

Some health advisors are claiming that the number of new cases is decreasing because 15% of the U.S. population has been vaccinated. How can they attribute success to the vaccine and discount the fact that people are wearing masks everywhere they go and practicing social distancing? Additionally, many states are still in some degree of lockdown and we are not testing the anywhere near the same numbers as previously. It's also worth noting that positive test results are down since the WHO changed the testing criteria on January 20t, 2021 citing too many false positives with the former criteria. This is a charade of our own making that will cost us many lives in the not-too-distant future.

As important, already many countries including some USA states are reporting vaccinated people have contracted coronavirus.

It is the virus viral load that seems to be more lethal with the variants, the vaccines were not designed to target the variants.

<https://www.usatoday.com/story/news/health/2021/03/31/pfizer-biontech-covid-19-vaccine-safe-effective-adolescents-coronavirus/4811287001/>

<https://news.yahoo.com/covid-19-cases-dropping-us-223500142.html>

<https://www.lifesitenews.com/news/one-hour-after-biden-inaugurated-who-changes-covid-testing-criteria>

16. How can we end lockdowns once and for all?

A. Testing everyone every three days.

Lockdowns have proven to be a complete failure. As variants continue to expand and we enter new phases of infection we cannot continue locking down our economies every few months each time there is a new surge of cases. This lockdown revolving door must be stopped immediately. Why do so-called responsible government leaders repeatedly ignore the only effective remedy for safely reopening the economy once and for all? Rapid testing each person every three days is the only way to ensure everyone that is out, and about transacting business is free of the virus? A person can display a negative test result on their mobile device and be free to move around as they please while ensuring the safety of others. Mobile testing units must be deployed everywhere, at every major intersection. We need to continue this mode of testing until we have succeeded at developing an effective therapeutic cocktail to deal with the virus.

B. Go after the source of coronavirus transmission

The virus needs to be isolated in every city, town, village, province and state and we need to be able to pinpoint the locations where the highest rates of transmission exist. Is the virus transmitted more in factories, indoor venues, gyms, restaurants, supermarkets, schools, or other places? Once we can isolate the top three transmission points, we will be able to deal with the problem much more effectively.

There are a variety of solutions that can be implemented. One such solution is utilizing dogs. Dogs can be trained and used to sniff out the virus. They can be placed outside the places with the highest transmission rates and identify people with COVID. Also, another suggestion would be testing the sewage water in each particular region. Additionally, interstate, and international travel should be halted for a brief time, a minimum three months. At least until we can get better control and more frequent testing as I have often described. The present system is a revolving door and will not provide long term effectiveness. There is a vicious cycle where a region is locked down then reopened once numbers seemingly improve. A few weeks later infection rates climb again, and businesses are once again locked down. This revolving door is an exercise in futility that will not work but rather seems to be churning the virus causing infection after infection. I wrote about this in a November article where I referred to it as the "hammer and dance."

The vaccine industry has grown to more than 35 billion dollars, but the economic losses are already running well into the trillions. On top of all that, is the loss of life and the long-term adverse effects on health due to these vaccines which is being completely ignored by the vaccine manufacturers. Common sense, logic and seeking non-conventional solutions like utilizing dogs and other thinking out of the box resources have been replaced with stupidity and politicization. Even though these vaccines do not work against the new variants they continue to inject us with a dangerous, experimental drug. The lies and deceit must stop.

17. Can we rely on vaccines such as Pfizer's that has already started to fail against the South African variant and could possibly result in more damage to an infected person?

Governments continue to push these vaccines on people that have already been rendered ineffective because they were designed for a virus that has long since mutated. Why is it that even though someone has been vaccinated they are still not permitted to walk around freely without wearing masks or social distancing? Because they know that even those that have been vaccinated are still at risk, especially from the new variants.

18. Are the coronavirus vaccines any more effective than water injections would be? What about the immediate, medium and long term side-effects?

At least water can do no harm, but the other hand, coronavirus vaccines could cause serious side effects. Sooner or later scientists will begin to break rank with the establishment and expose how useless and potentially harmful the coronavirus vaccines can be. Many irresponsible and incompetent medical and health officials in the west are telling us the vaccines have already reduced the number of infections. However, the facts do not support those claims as new cases continue to climb despite more and more people getting the vaccine. Controlling the pandemic has nothing to do with vaccinating people. Our own immune systems have proven to be very capable of effectively dealing with the virus. First, by preventing the virus from setting in. Secondly, when it does set in, our immune systems defeat the coronavirus with a greater than 98% recovery rate. The vaccines on the other hand are responsible for creating variants that can kill us.

Previous attempts to develop a vaccine for SARS have all failed animal trials and were subsequently abandoned. The elephant in the room that no one seems to be talking about is something I have discussed in several previous articles, Antibody Dependent Enhancement (ADE). ADE seems to appear in the SARS animal model. The antibodies could bind to the virus in such a way that makes the virus easier to enter the cells. It can make infection after vaccination more harmful and even potentially fatal. It depends which variant the person has been infected with. Why are we being asked to take such a big risk when there is no long-term data to support the safety and efficacy of these vaccines?

In previous op-eds, I have described the immune escape mutant factory. The variants created as a defense mechanism by the virus in order to override the vaccines are succeeding in totally avoiding the effects of the COVID-19 vaccines. Watch what will happen with the new Indian double mutants variant. Nobody knows what will happen in the future to the hundreds of millions of people vaccinated. Could they become very ill once they are infected with the variants? A human catastrophe of our own making is brewing, and the victims will be those who have been vaccinated for the coronavirus.

The vaccine slaughter needs to stop. The only remedy to the coronavirus will be to develop a therapeutic cocktail as was done for HIV, Hepatitis C, and Malaria.

<https://www.timesnownews.com/health/article/covid-19-is-natural-immunity-better-than-vaccine-acquired-immunity/710952>

<https://www.npr.org/sections/health-shots/2021/02/19/969143015/long-term-studies-of-covid-19-vaccines-hurt-by-placebo-ipients-getting-immuni>

19. Should vaccine manufacturers lose the immunity that protects them from being prosecuted?

Lies, lies, and more lies. Misrepresentation, after misrepresentation should never be rewarded with protection or immunity against legal action.

Coronavirus vaccine makers have created a money-making machine by perpetuating a con job using fraud and deceit, seemingly with the support of conflicted politicians, incompetent scientists, and the disastrous World Health Organization.

We know that coronavirus antibodies are short lived, lasting less than eight months. It's only a matter of time before vaccine manufacturers break the news to the public that their vaccines will require a booster every six months as well as the need for continuous annual vaccinations. It is a money-making scam. This has been their plan all along and I am sure they will make it known sooner rather than later.

Many are already experiencing side effects just weeks after being vaccinated. Just wait and see what happens six to nine months post-vaccination. It will be a catastrophe to watch so many poor, well-intended souls get infected with the virus and become seriously ill. Sadly, some will die. The world is not in a good place right now. Our western governments have failed us all and need to change their strategy.

Pfizer, Moderna, AstaZeneca and Johnson & Johnson must stop these vaccines now! It is already starting to backfire!

20. What should President Joe Biden, Prime Minister Boris Johnson, European Union President Ursula Von Der Leyen and other world leaders do next?

I want to make it clear that I believe these world leaders are doing their best to find a solution to this ever-mutating virus. Boris Johnson and the others have moved mountains to get their populations vaccinated. Our leaders are trying every possible available remedy to protect their people. We have never before experienced such an evil virus.

World leaders are typically not medical professionals. They seek the counsel and advice of doctors and scientists and act accordingly. Unfortunately, many doctors and scientists have made some serious misjudgments regarding these vaccines as a result of their failure to rely on historical data, and their failure to see the similarities between COVID-19 and MERS, SARS and HIV. However, the lion's share of the blame should be laid squarely on the shoulders of the vaccine manufacturers. We need to move on now to find and implement real solutions and stop pinning our false hopes to these damn, useless vaccines. Once again, I repeat my frequent calls to have everyone tested every three days until a therapeutic drug cocktail solution is developed.

You have let us all down on the coronavirus!

This is not the China/Wuhan Virus, South Africa, English, Brazilian, Nigerian, Indian, Czech Republic or any other nation's virus. The coronavirus has no country or racial preference; it just keeps infecting everyone equally. New variants are developing as we speak. The viral load is becoming more lethal; as much as eight times more contagious and it's becoming more deadly.

Scientists have now become like politicians in the prediction business. Facts and true science have taken second place to party politics. We do not need the likes of all these billionaires and their massive egos to tell us to take coronavirus vaccines. We need people with simple common sense like the average person. What will take place in the fall of 2021 will prove that vaccines have been a useless and dangerous endeavor. What we need, is to develop an effective therapeutic drug cocktail like we have for HIV.

Never Vaccinate during a Pandemic; Vaccines during a pandemic create new variants!

https://www.geertvandenbossche.org/?inf_contact_key=17dcc62c864297400bdd7c5aad8230009c74070ac2bf3cfa7869e3cfd4ff832
<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=mUIDeCRDLnU&t=19s>

Science 101, Biology 101, Immunology 101, and Virology 101 teach that you do not vaccinate during a pandemic. Additionally, before we recommend widespread COVID-19 vaccines to everyone, we must first make sure that the vaccine will reduce the rate of morbidity and mortality below the rates one could reasonably expect when letting the pandemic run its natural course. The evidence is pointing to a massive, self-inflicted scientific health problem on the horizon because of the current misinformation campaign authored by vaccine makers.

I commend the courage of Geert Vanden Bossche, DMV, PhD, an independent virologist, and vaccine expert. Recently he confirmed the validity of the criticisms of COVID-19 vaccines that I have been warning about since I began writing these articles in February 2020. Dr. Vanden Bossche clearly articulated the science and exposed the cover up by the pharmaceuticals. Are we purposely being misled?

MERS, SARS and the Spanish flu never had a vaccine during the pandemic, they died out naturally. Vaccines are feeding the coronavirus and enabling the virus to survive by mutating into new variants. The vaccines are feeding the virus the food it needs to mutate and create these lethal variants. The vaccines are keeping the virus alive instead of starving it out so it can die naturally like all previous viral pandemics have done.

Dr. Vanden Bossche said that we should never develop a vaccine during a pandemic. Doing so is dangerous because the vaccines will activate variants that will in turn make the virus much more aggressive and actively mutate rather than dying off over time. The virus cannot live in a dead host and needs to mutate and evolve to survive. As a result, a vaccine during a pandemic will become the catalyst in the creation of new lethal mutated variants as it forces the virus to mutate for its survival. I have learned a lot by researching the positions of many top scientists including one I have mentioned in previous articles, the distinguished and renowned Dr. Christian Drosten, a German virologist at the Charité University Hospital in Berlin, and more recently, some great scientists out of the Czech Republic.

How do we stop the creation of coronavirus variants? By stopping the vaccines

We can learn important lessons from the Spanish flu. The Spanish flu took its toll on the population but eventually it died off just as most coronaviruses have done like MERS and SARS. In the case of the Spanish flu, it took three years. Vaccinating during a pandemic is counterproductive. By giving people all these different vaccines, we are continually developing new, changing variants, and encouraging the virus to not only keep living, but to thrive. As a result, it will never die out. Instead of trying to vaccinate our way out of the pandemic we should focus our efforts on therapeutic solutions and constant testing of every citizen every three days.

People wonder why the virus is not slowing down fifteen months after it began. Instead, we see new wave after new wave continue to emerge. The answer is the vaccines are feeding the virus and causing it to gain strength. The vaccines are causing new variants to constantly develop.

The ongoing cover up by vaccine manufacturers has had the lid blown off it by the courageous Dr. Geert Vanden Bossche. Vaccines are feeding the virus the food it needs to mutate and create these lethal variants. Instead of starving the virus they are keeping it alive and not letting it die off naturally as has happened with all previous pandemics.

This opens a completely new debate on the seasonal flu vaccine. Is the flu vaccine safe? How many variants are the flu vaccines creating? Are we not also feeding the influenza virus through annual vaccines and causing it to mutate and stay alive instead of allowing it to die off naturally? Which variant is the vaccine addressing? What about the other variants? There is zero proof of its effectiveness. This is a guessing game, and we are relying on unfounded predictions. And what about the side effects? It seems to be all about money first while our health is secondary.

Vaccines are already proving to be ineffective against the new coronavirus variants showing up in New York State and parts of Europe

Biggest spikes are in most highly vaccinated states

The pharma's useless vaccines have created the new variants

<https://www.facebook.com/205498769484976/posts/4100255263342621/?d=n>

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=cxmhvZ6eEI4>

<https://futurism.com/neoscope/new-p1-coronavirus-strain-reinfect-covid>

The latest numbers show COVID cases are spiking in 13 states over the past week. The rebound in new cases in states like Michigan (which is leading the country over the past week with a 53% spike in new cases) Nevada, Maryland and Connecticut are raising concerns about whether new variants discovered in New York State, along with other variants like the Kent Strain (B117) and other international strains.

<https://www.zerohedge.com/covid-19/covid-cases-are-spiking-dozen-states-high-vaccination-rates>

Iceland is winning the war against coronavirus

<https://www.newyorker.com/magazine/2020/06/08/how-iceland-beat-the-coronavirus>

Iceland has succeeded in fighting the coronavirus by denying interference by politicians and letting the science dictate the policy. The question that needs to be answered now is, will visitors re-infect the population again with the new variants. Iceland needs to keep up the stringent scientific practices and not bow to political pressure.

Are we seeing George Orwell's "1984" play out before our eyes? Is "Big Brother" using coronavirus vaccines to take control of the masses?

Although I have tried to avoid politics in my op-eds, it's hard to ignore how the coronavirus is being used as a political tool to impose control over people. As a writer myself, I have always celebrated courageous novelists like the great George Orwell who have had their work challenged and even banned.

It's hard not to draw comparisons between today's reality and Orwell's classic novel, seeing how governments are turning the coronavirus vaccines into a 21st century tool to impose control over every aspect of our lives, issue new taxes and create new regulations that erode more and more of our freedoms. As Orwell pointed out, human actions are constantly scrutinized under the watchful eye of "Big Brother." We are no longer encouraged to be independent thinkers. Instead, we are being molded into the puppets of the ruling party, always being watched and kept dependent on Big Brother. Orwell was a great visionary, warning the leaders of the western world of the dangers of totalitarian government.

Today's coronavirus vaccines have given governments more fodder to spread their tentacles over us, increase their control and slowly force us to relinquish more of our liberties. It is totalitarianism for a government to order everyone to be vaccinated, yet that is what is on the horizon. They do not look at us as free-thinking individuals capable of making our own choices. But rather they see us dumb sheep that are not capable of governing ourselves. It's not about the virus, it is about government control over the masses.

<https://www.britannica.com/topic/Nineteen-Eighty-four>

Is coronavirus changing our society to a dystopia phenomenon

Dystopia is an imagined state or society where there is great suffering or injustice and people become fearful of their lives, typically one that is totalitarian.

We all look for a break from the coronavirus so we can start dreaming again of a Utopia society which is an imaginary happy world like the Garden of Eden that is aesthetically pleasing and where there was no knowledge of "Good and Evil"-Heaven.

Why is someone worse off after having been vaccinated?

It's all about money while our health is secondary; the sicker we get, the more profits these vaccine producers make

Once a person is vaccinated, they become much more vulnerable if infected with the coronavirus. Their natural immune system has not had time to adjust to the new variants. Our immune system is designed to suppress and disable many infections after it has had time to adjust. New vaccines cause new variants which take away our body's ability to fight off the virus.

I must also point out that most pharmaceutical and biomedical companies and scientists make great contributions to improving our health. Most do indeed care for our safety and wellbeing. Unfortunately, I cannot say the same about the coronavirus vaccine producers who seem to be displaying greed and scientific incompetence. They should return all the monies they have made for these vaccines. Do the "elites" realize their support for these vaccines could potentially kill tens, or even hundreds of millions of people?

<https://www.bitchute.com/video/b51E2b9YkgAD/>

European digital passport madness

Soon, Europe will be allowing people to travel within its community if they have a valid digital passport that proves they have either

- (a) been vaccinated
- (b) had a recent negative covid test, or
- (c) be recently recovered from COVID-19.

Europe is heading down the road of being relegated to becoming a third world health provider by the end of 2022. Only solid historic and scientific data can be used to confirm success or failure. The variants that are now being strengthened through vaccinations during the pandemic will soon overcome the proposed three protections required to travel within Europe. Not only will the digital passport not render the desired outcome, but it will likely lead to tens of millions of infections by early 2022, if not before. It may also lead to the possibility of new unknown side effects that we will need to deal with for years to come. Imagine what will happen once summer is over and all these tourists return home and begin to infect everyone around them.

America is now the land of censorship over free expression; The coronavirus has put America and Europe on the road to communism

Fear, dependence, and neediness are the new kids on the block. When politicians scare people to death and make them dependent on government, they are leading the country down the road towards communism. Many western governments are using vaccines as the tool to sow the seeds of their communist ideals. Even historical events are now being rewritten, or in some cases canceled out altogether. We should recognize history for what it was and not make any attempts to erase or rewrite it to conform to today's opinions or cultural norms. Let's learn from it, not destroy it.

Our democracy is now being reset and taken into a new direction of becoming a controlled democracy. Criticism of such things like coronavirus vaccines as well and other subjects are being removed by social media outlets because it's not the message they support. What have we become? What are we becoming? They want us to be followers and robots. The new generation of young people are being manipulated and indoctrinated by social media companies.

What will happen after hundreds of millions are vaccinated?

The science paints a bleak picture of having an extremely ill population in the future. We are poisoning people by giving them vaccines during a pandemic. The virus is thriving and feeding off these vaccines. It will get stronger and stronger until the scientific community wakes up, leaves political appeasements behind, and begins to focus on real scientific data. Vaccines will keep us in perpetual lockdowns and will bankrupt our economies. We are in real trouble!

Vaccines do not give us natural herd immunity

The Spanish Flu of World War I took a toll on the entire world population. Once herd immunity was achieved a few years after the virus began, resurgence of the Spanish Flu was controlled naturally by the immune system's memory of previous encounters. It was a natural self-limiting viral infection. Today, the medical community has decided that we should vaccinate the world DURING the pandemic rather than allow it to run its natural course, and the vaccine would expedite herd immunity

The coronavirus vaccines cannot keep up with the constant development of new variants. A vaccine compromises the body's own natural immune response and makes people more vulnerable to the variants when infected after vaccination. Those that are vaccinated before COVID-19 exposure are no longer controlling virus replication and transmission. This is because the variants are infecting the population. That is different from the one composed in the vaccine! The virus just evades the vaccinal antibody response.

The sad epilogue is that new and variant vaccines are no match for a virus that can adjust itself within hours. Vaccinating the world may mean the global population will likely have to deal with a much worse version of the virus and a worse health care situation than was experienced earlier in the pandemic. Also, what really troubles me is that those vaccinated may be worse off and more vulnerable. What a disaster!

The push for vaccines has proven to be nothing but a deliberate and confusing fraudulent misinformation campaign

Historical data shows that the body's own natural defenses are able to successfully fight the virus at the outset of infection, killing it in more than 90% of infected patients without a vaccine. What has changed since the introduction of the vaccines? Are they trying to make us believe that within a few weeks of vaccination the level of antibodies is strengthened? The antibody level is already strong in the few weeks after infection without vaccines. We need to wait six to twelve months after inoculation and evaluate the effects of the vaccines at that time. I am certain it will show zero positive effect. My conclusions are based on existing scientific data from MERS, SARS and HIV.

Claims that vaccines are over 90% effective are meaningless; They are stealing our natural immune response.

It is well known that once infected the body's own immune system begins to fight the virus with a greater than 90% success rate. Vaccine manufacturers are not making any promises that neutralizing antibodies will be present or provide protection after six months, their literature only confirms significant antibody presence two to three months later. Your own immune system will produce a significant number of antibodies at the start of the infection, which is the reason more than 90% of people recover.

The pharmaceutical companies are claiming their vaccines are over 90% effective. How can we know whether that is due to the vaccine or the body's own natural immune responses at the onset of infection when the results are identical? Your own immune system gets right into action at the outset of the infection, and over 90% of infected people recover without being vaccinated. Why is the vaccine even needed if it no longer prevents infections six to twelve months later?

March 10, 2021

Will vaccines stop me from getting the coronavirus? That is wishful and irresponsible thinking?

We are being told that vaccines will protect us from getting the coronavirus. In my opinion that is wishful thinking. So far, we have zero proof that those who have been vaccinated are no longer at risk of getting the virus. This is part of the propaganda and misinformation being put forth by the powerful pharmaceutical companies and their many well-paid supporters within the various government establishments.

I question those that are saying that anyone who is vaccinated is safe from catching the coronavirus because of the antibodies they get from the vaccines. Yes, there are indeed a certain amount of antibodies that will protect against being infected by the virus, but this amount already exists within our own immune systems. The fact that you are getting more does not mean you are no longer at risk of infection. Since we have began to vaccinate people over the past three months, the true numbers have not come down, they are actually going up. Since we have been more economical with regards to testing, less testing means fewer positive cases reported.

After my most recent op-ed I received several calls with varied reactions from people after reading the piece, and in some instances researching the things I wrote about. One of the calls was from a Greek friend who lives in America. He told me that on the advice of his doctor he took the vaccine so he can travel to Greece this summer to visit his family and stay safe from contracting the coronavirus. Another person told me they too were vaccinated and have already booked a summer vacation in Hawaii.

Sadly, we are already getting reports of people who have contracted the coronavirus after being vaccinated. If that is the case now, just wait and see what happens eight to twelve months after being vaccinated.

What happens when an unvaccinated person tests positive? They are instructed to go home and self-isolate. Their own immune system kicks in and in more than 98% of cases they will recover naturally. Are some politicians and global organizations trying to use the virus to create a panic and gradually erode our freedoms under the banner of keeping us safe from the coronavirus? Is democracy being infringed upon? Are we being played in order to become their robots?

A melting pot of coronavirus variants exchange

Here is what is likely to happen this summer. Europeans, Americans, Canadians, Australians and others who have been vaccinated will once again feel safe and begin to flock to summer beach locations in Hawaii, Greece, Spain, Israel, Dubai and other summer hot spots. Believing they are immune to infection because they took their COVID-19 shot, they will more freely interact with each other. This will result in masses of people contracting and exchanging the new variants of the virus which are growing as we speak. As their two weeks on vacation comes to an end the coronavirus variants will likely still be asymptomatic. Some may feel feverish, others will get feverish after returning home. Soon after, I predict a disaster will take place of significant magnitude.

So far, only China, Vietnam and South Korea have shown the ability to control the virus. We must not allow any international travel, or travel between cities, towns, or villages where there have been outbreaks. We must have constant testing and stop the drama and nonsense in opposition to wearing masks and social distancing. We must also ensure that we have the ability to provide adequate hospitalization when needed.

Vaccine manufacturers are telling us there are no guarantees that vaccinated people will not be able to transmit the virus to others. Even worse, the vaccines are far less effective against the new emerging variants. If that is the case, why are they vaccinating us? I have said many times before and I will once again reiterate; in the fall of 2021 we will see how serious this virus will affect the western world. It will be a disaster of our own making. You have seen nothing yet.

America is within three months of a coronavirus disaster

Today, the Czech Republic is very close to declaring martial law. The risk index is now at 70 out of a possible 100 points corresponding to the fourth level in the five-tier counter epidemic system. The variants have taken control. The English variant is almost at 80% of infection with the added Brazilian and South African variants. With the addition of these three variants, the virus has developed its own home grown variant.

A self-inflicted bioweapon

America has just opened its borders with Mexico allowing illegal immigrants to flow in and enter the general population throughout various communities. International flights are still operating. As a result, the United States can expect to see an exact repeat of what has taken place in the Czech Republic. Many of the migrants that are infected with the virus are carrying the Brazilian, English and South African variants. Next is a disaster in waiting. The belief that we can vaccinate ourselves out of the pandemic is a myth. The new variants are much stronger than COVID-19.

Operation warp speed

About 18.7 billion dollars was spent on Operation Warp Speed in support of vaccine and almost zero was spent to support the 400 or so therapeutic applications. The same withholding of funds was applied to developing more rapid testing innovations. Operation Warp Speed was poorly managed and created nothing of value for the taxpayers who funded it besides enriching vaccine manufacturers. They may as well have just flushed the 18.7 billion dollars of taxpayer money down the toilet.

Sadly, America no longer supports innovators, whether it's in the technology or pharmaceutical sectors. The corrupt new patent laws give large corporations the ability to infringe upon and outright steal the inventions and intellectual property of small inventors. As an inventor myself, my advice is to keep your inventions a trade secret. Do not seek to patent.

I appreciate the Supreme Court Justices who have stood up for the rights of patent owners in the past and have upheld the integrity of U.S. patents. We need the U.S. Supreme Court to once again step in and address the issue of Alice 101 that has become disastrous for patent owners. I hope the high court will clarify the matter and set clear legal guidelines. The lack of a consistent standard and uniformity in the Alice 101 has allowed some federal district court judges to use their own discretion often leading to arbitrary decisions lacking proper technical analysis. This has resulted in some judges invalidating good inventions that other judges would have upheld.

As an inventor myself, and the CEO of Voip-Pal, a company that has been involved in patent litigation against some of the largest Silicon Valley companies, I would point out to judges, and in particular the Supreme Court that every invention begins as an abstract idea. It starts out as an imaginary concept in the mind of the inventor and only becomes a reality as he or she use their skills to create it in a unique and practical way. The Supreme Court needs to address the problem of abstract in the current U.S. patent system with regards to the Alice 101. Strict and clear guidelines are needed, or many great inventions will continue to be destroyed by the arbitrary decisions of some judges who lack the ability to understand the complex, technical merits of many of today's inventions. Some judges have gone so far as to state that all software inventions are abstract in nature and should be invalidated. This is not acceptable as we live in the era of computers and rely on software for so much of what we do. The powerful lobby of the Silicon Valley giants that have made countless billions of dollars by licensing their software inventions are now influencing legislation and legal decisions to keep small inventors from monetizing their software inventions. This is an affront to innovation in America. America was built on great inventions. They are destroying the future and stomping on small inventors and start-ups for their own monopolistic machinations. I am repeating my previous admonitions to my fellow inventors; having a patent in the United States is no longer an asset, it has become a liability.

Coronavirus math proves vaccines are useless and dangerous

Before any vaccine is approved six to eight years of data must be collected. I am about average proficiency in math, but I can count, and I can differentiate between figures. Data shows a greater than 98% survivability rate among all coronavirus cases without the vaccine. A very small percentage of coronavirus patients will require hospitalization, and 95% of those that do need to be hospitalized survive. The survival rate could even be much higher than that since the numbers are based only on confirmed cases and do not take into account the large number of people infected that never get tested.

What do the vaccines contribute?

A person's own immune system beats the virus from the outset of infection more than 98% of the time. If the argument is that vaccines will keep the other 2% safe, then how is it possible that we are told AstraZeneca's vaccine is only 64% effective, Moderna 94%, Pfizer 95% and Johnson & Johnson 72%? Can someone please explain how it is that these vaccines are going to prevent the remaining 2% from getting infected? The vaccines are less effective than the immune system. It gets worse because the rate of effectiveness of the vaccines goes down even further with regard to the new variants. Why do western governments continue to push vaccines that have not been proven to give protection from the virus?

Antibody-Dependent Enhancement (ADE)

I have written about ADE a few times in past articles and I feel compelled to bring these concerns up again. Even a slight possibility that ADE can play a role in the human coronavirus disease is frightening as it can be devastating to millions of people who have already been vaccinated. Antibody-dependent enhancement could be a factor many months, or even a year after a person is vaccinated.

In layman's terms, when a person with coronavirus recovers naturally, the T cells recognize the nucleocapsid protein and they develop a natural immune response to it, as well as to the spike protein. The vaccines on the other hand, are only designed to respond to the spike protein, and not the nucleocapsid protein. The new variant mutations could change a vaccine's neutralizing antibodies to become recognizing antibodies with much less effect. The recognizing antibodies created by the vaccine to fight the spike protein could be used as a tool to begin infecting the T cells that are supposed to destroy the nucleocapsid protein.

The result could be dangerous for anyone who has been vaccinated if they get reinfected. The variants will use the existing recognizing antibodies to stage an ADE. The broader consequences of this could be catastrophic if such a process were to be widespread among vaccinated individuals.

Vaccine manufacturers must have thorough molecular immunology data that supports the fact that ADE will not take place. But how can we know for certain when there is no historical data to draw from? It is believed that now some animal testing is beginning to show the possibility of ADE.

Vaccines have already failed to show effectiveness; it's the scandal of this century!

The trillion-dollar question that needs to be addressed is what happens two to twelve months after vaccination? Additionally, we need to know the answers to several other questions. Have the vaccines succeeded in stopping the virus's mechanism of disabling the reproduction of neutralizing antibodies three to twelve months after vaccination? What are the long-term effects of the vaccine? Does the vaccine prevent the virus from spreading? Vaccine manufacturers keep telling us they cannot guarantee that vaccinated people will not be able to transmit a low-level infection and there is no data to suggest it can prevent asymptomatic infections. How much of the memory B cells are being disabled before or after six months? There is zero data on this. The new and more lethal variants are now rendering the vaccine useless. Do pregnant women risk placenta complications from the vaccine, and if so, do women that are not pregnant and receive the vaccine risk potential complications in a future pregnancy?

It's nonsensical for respected scientists to be telling us that a vaccine is better than no vaccine. First, we do not know if it's the vaccine's antibodies or the person's own existing antibodies that are producing positive results. Secondly, what about future side effects? Each day we are learning more and more about potential complications like development of type 2 diabetes, placenta problems with pregnant women, P53 cancer effects to name a few. It seems like scientists are having to follow their political masters, but this is a well-designed campaign of misinformation by pharmaceutical companies to confuse the public into following their recommendations. Later this year they will be pressuring us into taking the vaccine every six months to one year like the flu vaccine. They don't care about people's health; this is about more money.

What is the solution?

Safety measures like wearing masks, social distancing, and keeping all indoor facilities closed must continue for now. All borders should be closed for at least the next three months or more to all international travelers. Every country should introduce an internal lockdown and maintain separation between their cities, towns, and villages allowing only goods to move about freely. Rapid testing of everyone, every three days is a must. We are well overdue for an effective therapeutic drug cocktail that treats patients more successfully and reduces the need for intensive care. Such a treatment that cures the patient before they experience the onset of respiratory problems and difficulty breathing will significantly reduce the virus's mortality rate.

Vaccine makers do not want to see therapeutic treatments that cure the virus being developed. They are powerful and politically well connected and want to continue to generate billions and billions of dollars by vaccinating people every six months. They have already convinced government leaders that their vaccines have been effective in the first few weeks since they have been rolled out and are continuing their campaign to con the public.

Herd immunity is herd stupidity

Albert Einstein has been credited with saying, "Only two things are infinite, the universe and human stupidity, and I'm not sure about the former."

Vaccinating most of the country does not solve the problem when you have new variants popping up as they had in South Africa, Brazil, England, Nigeria and now the Czech Republic. The vaccines are proving to be less effective and may not be effective at all against the new variants. Having to continually revaccinate to achieve herd immunity is herd stupidity.

And it gets worse; some idiots are now proposing vaccine passports. Greece is floating the idea to reopen their country to tourists who have vaccine passports. To those who are proposing this idea I would humbly offer a quote by the great Albert Einstein, "Only two things are infinite, the universe and human stupidity, and I'm not sure about the former."

<https://futurism.com/neoscope/new-p1-coronavirus-strain-reinfect-covid>

What matters is the initial viral load

Reports indicate that the new variants may be as much as eight times more infectious than COVID-19 and have a stronger viral load. Alarming, the stronger the concentration of the viral load upon initial infection could mean a more serious impact, even on a person in excellent health. It can result in speeding up oxygen deprivation to the organs which can potentially lead to death. This virus is proving to know no boundaries and can develop limitless new and lethal variants even as we speak. The public is not fully aware just how infectious this virus is. Transmission can happen at any age. Recently there have been reported cases of school children as young as kindergarten age that have contracted the virus and passed it on to their families.

Pharma's con-demic

Vaccine makers and the WHO have told us that getting vaccinated does not guarantee the person is not able to transmit the virus to someone else. Does that mean they are telling us the vaccines do not work? Predictions are not scientific unless they are based on solid scientific data. They also cannot tell us if it's the antibody boost one gets from a vaccine or the person's own natural antibodies that are able to destroy the virus. We all know that most people infected with the virus recover because of their own body's antibody immune response without the need for a vaccine. Even if the vaccine does increase one's own neutralizing antibodies, we know that within a few weeks to up to one year after infection the virus can switch off the mechanism that constantly makes neutralizing antibodies for over 80% of infected people. The real test comes nine to twelve months after being vaccinated, which we will not see until the end of 2021. I believe we will all pay the price for not following scientific data rather than relying on the self-interests of the pharmaceutical companies. Hold on to your seats! What was the real point in focusing so heavily on vaccines, to make the pharmaceutical companies richer?

Are the Texas and Mississippi governors replacing scientists with undertakers?

Governor Abbott of Texas and Governor Reeves of Mississippi have just lifted their states' mask mandates. Don't they understand that wearing masks indoors is a proven deterrent to spreading the virus? This announcement left me speechless. Immigrants are constantly flowing into Texas from Mexico. Many of whom have been infected with the Brazilian variant. Next, we could see the Brazilian variant with a much stronger viral load combined with another variant altogether. Within the next four months Texas and Mississippi are going to be in big trouble. Just a few months ago we were lauding the great job done by officials in the Czech Republic for their handling of the virus, today they are on the verge of martial law. This virus has the potential to turn disastrous very quickly. The new variants are eight times more infectious. Eliminating masks and returning businesses back to normal will cause the new variants to spread rapidly. We will see pickup trucks hauling away dead bodies as is currently happening in the Czech Republic as well as other places.

<https://www.fox4news.com/news/gov-abbott-ends-statewide-mask-mandate-reopens-all-businesses>
<https://thehill.com/policy/healthcare/541282-mississippi-governor-lifts-state-mask-mandate>

Optimistic scientist's views on the coronavirus for 2021

Many respected leaders in the scientific community as well as the World Health Organization (WHO) have a much more optimistic view of the state of the virus than mine. While I do not share these more optimistic views at this time, in the interest of fairness I feel I should highlight some of them here. Personally, I hope they are correct, and their predictions come true for all our sakes.

For starters they tout the change in people's behavior as a big reason things have improved. They also credit the decisions made by political leaders, international cooperation, and vaccines for the progress they believe has been made in the fight against coronavirus.

Worldwide daily cases have declined by 50% from the peak. The United States has seen a 60% decline from the peak, the United Kingdom is down 85%, India down 90%, Germany 70%, Sweden and Israel are each down 50%. For now, these trends are positive and provide a window for optimism.

I would caution getting overly excited at this point. Are these rapid declines due to vaccinations or could they be a result of a decline in testing? A recent report by the CDC showed a 20% decline in the number of people getting COVID-19 tests from one week to another in the month of February.

Why do we need a vaccine if it is not giving us long term protection!

My biggest concern is the lack of actual data. Where will we be nine to twelve months after taking the vaccine? The more infectious the variant the more immunity it will generate. What happens if two variants combine and form a super-virus like a superbug? We all agree the coronavirus will never be gone. It is endemic and we need to treat it the same way we treat every other infectious disease. The vaccines will prove to have been a failure in the medium and long term. Only continuous testing every three days and an effective therapeutic cocktail will be the solution. I pray the optimistic scientists are correct in their assessment and by the end of this year my dire predictions are proven to be wrong.

<https://www.cdc.gov/coronavirus/2019-ncov/covid-data/covidview/index.html>

The WHO announces coronavirus will be fading by end of 2021

The WHO is also optimistic that the coronavirus is now fading. I wonder what they are smoking that is making them feel optimistic. This is a misinformation campaign by the WHO and gives us more reason not to trust them. New variants in California, Czech Republic, Italy, Philippines, Brazil, Japan, India, and others are already causing havoc <https://de.rt.com/international/113566-who-ende-pandemie-in-sicht/>

The extensive research I have conducted on the evolution of the coronavirus does not correlate with the irresponsible and non-data supported claims coming from the WHO that state the end of the pandemic is in sight. The WHO should stick to science and leave political appeasement to political donors.

The numbers are coming down simply because we are not doing enough testing and the numbers being reported are not accurate. The WHO states that except for the eastern Mediterranean, worldwide numbers are on the decline even without vaccinations. I agree that vaccinations will never be effective but if we analyze how fast the variants in the Czech Republic, Italy, the Philippines, Brazil, Japan, Greece, and California are currently spreading we cannot possibly make any credible claims that the virus looks like it will fade out this year. What we are seeing unfold does not support that conclusion. Despite measures like mask wearing, social distancing, and closing institutions and restaurants the virus continues to spread at an alarming pace throughout the Czech Republic and many other countries.

If you recall when the coronavirus first broke out in Italy, we were told it would be contained in Italy. Guess what? Not only did it spread throughout Europe, but also into the United States, Canada, Australia and throughout most of the world. Today it is believed the Czech Republic is making its own homegrown variants in addition to the Kent, Brazilian and South African viruses we have seen pop-up. The numbers are alarming, and if the current virus in Czech makes its way to America, we will have half a million new infections per day. I believe this is likely to happen. If it has not hit the US and Europe already, it will soon. We have not yet seen the peak which will happen by the end of the year. The WHO is no longer a credible organization that could be taken seriously. They have become a politically driven entity. Scientific factual integrity is no longer their priority.

The immediate solution is for countries to isolate themselves; borders must be closed for at least the next six months

Vaccine makers have ulterior motives; this is a vaccine con-demic

Mark my words, the billions of dollars in earnings that were scammed by the pharmaceutical companies for their coronavirus vaccines was due to a well thought out and devious plan that will be used again and again. Pfizer, Moderna, AstraZeneca and now the latest player Johnson & Johnson are milking this virus for all they can. They understand the vaccines are only 65% effective or less against new variants, yet they continue to arduously promote them. They are putting their own profits before the health of the public. Why have these brilliant scientists not told us if it is the vaccines or the body's natural immune defenses that cure over 90% of the infected in the first three months? This is scandalous?

The newest FDA approved vaccine by Johnson & Johnson does not guarantee it will stop transmission of the virus. There is no concrete evidence of efficacy on any of the new variants. It is completely useless like the other coronavirus vaccines. The only beneficiaries are the vaccine companies. Soon we'll be told by government leaders that we will need to be vaccinated every year like with the flu vaccine. Unfortunately, this will be a disaster. The flu vaccine is only 67% effective, and the antibodies typically fade out in three to six months. Unlike the flu, coronavirus is often asymptomatic and continuously mutating. By the time you get the vaccine a new variant has likely already replaced the first virus diminishing its effectiveness.

How will this year end? My prediction is we will be in deep shit! Unless governments halt the vaccines now, they will be changing their diapers on a regular basis. This is a major mess in the works. Herd immunity is based on one variant; what happens with the next variant? As we speak, a whopping 240 mutated coronavirus strains have been discovered in India. Will these dangerous traveling variants combine into a new "SUPERBUG"? As a result, a new depression awaits us by the end of 2021 to early 2022 like we have never seen before. The virus's best friend and enabler for spreading is our western democracy.

In a previous op-ed I credited the current administration with having some excellent points in its national coronavirus strategy. Below is an excerpt from that article.

The new U.S. administration has some excellent points in its coronavirus national strategy

The Biden Administration's newly released national strategy for handling COVID-19 is an extremely well written paper that puts forth an excellent strategy on many points including prioritizing the research for new therapeutics. For the first time, the systematic testing of all antivirals in combination is being permitted to take place at the outset. This alone will streamline the development time of new therapeutics, get products to and through toxicity testing and clinical trials much quicker, and could reduce the approval process by three years saving millions of dollars. Researchers will now be able to conduct testing of multiple inhibitors on human cells at one time, in lieu of having to test them one by one. They will also be able to conduct drug cocktail testing on cancerous tumours and other diseases much sooner than they were previously. These provisions could make it possible for the faster development of a therapeutic cocktail to moderate the dangerous cascading lung inflammation caused by COVID-19.

That aside, I am continuing my avid warning to this administration about the potential dangers of the current vaccines. I hope they consider rolling back their aggressive campaign to reach 100 million vaccinations in 100 days. We are constantly receiving new information which suggests the declining efficacy of the vaccine. The new vaccines began with promises of 95% effectiveness, but those numbers are rapidly dropping as new data comes in. Could the current admissions that the vaccines may not be effective on new strains of the virus be a way of creating a soft landing ahead of the future revelations of widespread vaccine failure that will eventually become known? I have been consistent in my calls to pause the ongoing vaccine program until further data can be confirmed that can ensure the safety and efficacy of the current vaccines.

<https://int.nyt.com/data/documenttools/national-strategy-for-the-covid-19-response/c7bd8ecb9308d669/full.pdf>

<https://ceocfointerviews.com/emilmalakoped0221.html>

A thirty trillion-dollar deficit and vaccine failure will cause a new depression

"We will be in deep Shit!"

I asked a scientist who is an expert on coronavirus where we will be by the end of the year. His reply was simply, "We will be in deep Shit!" I am making no apologies for repeating his words. He is merely giving an honest description of what he believes will happen over the next nine months once the so-called vaccine protection everyone is counting on runs out. Politicians need to be seen doing something to be re-elected and hold on to their power. Big pharma knows what a cash cow the vaccine business is, and they used the pandemic to generate billions in revenues. Fear took over public opinion and the public needed hope. Vaccine manufacturers won't make any guarantees regarding immunity, their product is experimental in that there is no long-term data on which to base their claims of efficacy and safety, and they misled desperate government leaders making them believe that the vaccine is the only hammer in the toolbox and therapeutics and continual rapid testing are only the nails. Now we are at a place where the hammer is broken and only the nails will be able to provide a solution to the rapidly changing coronavirus.

In one of my earlier articles from last year, I said the vaccine makers are running the biggest "con-demic" of the century. I was criticized by many for those words and other things I have said in my op-eds and I have been accused of being overly dramatic by some of my friends. I was told that since I am just an average person, I do not have the credentials to question the science. Once again, I am requesting that politicians and their scientific advisers immediately halt all COVID-19 vaccinations for the next nine months and see what results we have from those who have already been vaccinated. The ancient Greek philosopher Socrates is credited with having said, "Smart people learn from everything and everyone, average people from their experiences, stupid people already have the answers." He was later condemned to death for his Socratic method of questions. And to add insult to injury, our democracy is enabling the virus to spread even faster with opposition to masks, social distancing and isolating infected patients and resisting constant testing. Early on some foolish people were even having coronavirus parties to intentionally infect spread the infection. These things bring harm to us all. Just wait a little longer and see how the vaccine makers will tell us the vaccine needs to be taken every six months. For them this is a brand new, ongoing revenue stream.

A cluster of mess

Pushing to vaccinate the entire population is creating a cluster of mess. First, it is logistically impossible to meet the sheer supply of providing vaccines and boosters for the entire population. Second, the cold supply chain requiring ultra-low temperatures for transit and storage make it a logistical nightmare to deploy the vaccine in places with warmer climates and underdeveloped infrastructure like parts of Africa, South America, the Middle East, and other segments of the world. Additionally, these vaccines are not as effective against the new variants as they are against COVID-19. Even worse, how are we going to deal with variants that need a new adjusted vaccine every few months?

The only immediate solution is to ban international travel for the next six months.

A new superbug could easily develop down the road

With the current spread of ongoing mutations, whether through travel or by home-grown variant combinations, it is becoming increasingly more likely that we will see two lethal variants combine that are much more transmissible and deadly. The result will be a much more lethal and vaccine resistant superbug. The coronavirus we have experienced so far has only been a teaser for what we are about to get this fall. We have not seen anything yet. The human tragedy that will befall us will be unimaginable.

The new variants will cause a speedier spread of the virus and unleash a deadlier version of COVID. The new superbug, COVID-20-21-22, may have the potential to unleash a death toll that could surpass what we have seen from past pandemics like the Spanish Flu, MERS, SARS, and the Bubonic plague.

I do want to clarify that our western governments are NOT to blame. Government leaders are sincere in their desire to save lives and normalize the economy. But we need to learn from our mistakes, stop blaming each other and find effective solutions. Our politicians and the scientific community care deeply. This virus is a new type of disease that does not seem to be fading. On the contrary it is getting stronger, more infectious, and deadlier. They need to abandon their push for vaccines and shift the focus towards therapeutics and ongoing testing every three days.

Why are we encouraging distribution of a vaccine for a COVID-19 that no longer exists in the wake of new, more contagious, and deadlier variants that have since developed? Not only is the current crop of vaccines far less effective against these variants, but we also do not have sufficient data on the future vaccine side effects.

This fall we will begin to see many people who received the COVID-19 vaccine get infected with a new variant and fall extremely ill. We need to find therapeutic solutions that will prevent the possibility that infected patients could end up on a respirator. Having such a solution will remove the fear that is paralyzing our economies.

Vaccines are creating mutant factory escapes; new variants are creating an immunity “escape mechanism”

Vaccines are proving to be only 50% effective against the new variants. That means 50% of people who receive the vaccine could easily become infected and allow the virus to design its way against the vaccine's immunized defense creating yet another variant that is resistant to vaccines altogether. This virus has already demonstrated its ability to hijack antibodies, creating a much more lethal strain of the virus against the present vaccines. Whether we admit it or not, we will never vaccinate our way out of the coronavirus nor achieve a nonexistent herd immunity which has already been tried and has failed.

Like other diseases, coronavirus is here to stay. We must wrap our heads around the fact that we will be dealing with COVID the same way we deal with cancer, HIV, diabetes, malaria, and everything else. It may take three or four years to develop an effective customized therapeutic cocktail. We have already wasted one full year chasing ineffective vaccines.

<https://www.rt.com/uk/515824-covid19-vaccines-variants-oxford/>

Homegrown mutations out of India

India's 240 new homegrown coronavirus mutations have the potential to create a variant or variants with an immunity escape mechanism capable of completely evading the immune response. Dr. Randeep Guleria, pulmonologist and the current director of the All-India Institute of Medical Sciences is cautiously sounding the alarm that these mutations could be highly transmissible or potentially more dangerous. India is home to some of the best and most genius scientists in the world. Do not underestimate Dr. Guleria's assessment. For him to make such a claim he must have some very serious concerns. We are indeed in "deep s@#*t." We must face the reality that these vaccines are already ineffective.

<https://www.rt.com/news/516234-india-new-infectious-covid-strains/>

Mutations have made coronavirus eight times more infectious than the original Wuhan variant

New Kent, South Africa, Brazil, and homegrown Czech Republic variants are as much as eight times more infectious and 30% to 70% more deadly. Neville Sanjana, assistant professor of biology at NYU said, "Confirming that the mutation leads to more transmissibility may help explain, in part, why the virus has spread so rapidly over the past year."

<https://www.rt.com/news/515920-coronavirus-mutations-eight-times-infectious/>

New homegrown Czech Republic variants

As I have previously mentioned in my other op-eds, the virus could mutate internally to a variant, similar or even more lethal than the latest variants we have seen recently come out of other countries. The internal home-grown deleting mutation process is where a piece of the protein is deleted, making the virus more infectious than the original COVID-19. Are we on the verge of getting a homegrown lethal coronavirus across the world? I have often pointed out the Wuhan/COVID-19 strain is long gone. Now we are dealing with continuous new variants that make vaccines less effective, more infectious, and deadlier. We need to wake up to the ugly coronavirus reality.

Vaccination must be halted now, and the focus shifted to a therapeutic cocktail

The vaccines have already failed. The focus should shift to the development of a customized therapeutic cocktail as is used for malaria and HIV that deals with elements within the virus that do not mutate. A variety of pills can be used that do not try to kill the virus; instead, they stop the damage to the body that causes death. Similarly, an inhaler along the same line as the one recently developed in Israel that could be taken as a preventive measure to stop the oxygen deprivation from occurring.

<https://bgr.com/2021/02/06/coronavirus-cure-exo-cd24-trial-israel/>

Western leaders need to admit their mistake of focusing on vaccines and change course by halting inoculations and stopping the manslaughter. The Israeli government must do the same and abandon their push to vaccinate their entire country.

You cannot tell your entire population that you are conducting a clinical trial when you are really carrying out a forced vaccination. The smart ones are refusing to take the vaccine and using the internet to communicate their anti-vaccine stand, and it's working. Israel's claim that the vaccines are working is completely misleading. A new study at the Weizman Institute of Science at Tel Aviv University shows that COVID-19 cases and hospitalizations began to decline in mid-January 2021. Claims that credit the vaccine for the decline are misleading. The public is not stupid. We know that the vaccines increase neutralizing antibodies in the first few months, but these antibodies begin to decline after eight to twelve months. Also, these vaccines were designed for COVID-19. How effective could they be against these new variants?

The Israeli government announced recently that they would be relaxing restrictions on their economy and would begin to open up restaurants, bars, and other social venues. Believing you are safe now because of the vaccine is a dangerous illusion that will end up costing lives and economic shutdown. Remember the Pfizer, Moderna, and AstraZeneca vaccines have not been fully tested on the new variants. These coronavirus variants are still asymptomatic and eight times more contagious than COVID-19.

Dubai and other friendly Middle East countries should close their borders to Israeli visitors

The Israeli government is determined to carry out the vaccination of all its people. Many Arab Jews are now starting to flock to Dubai after receiving a vaccine to protect against a virus that no longer exists. Instead, they are likely to be carrying another more serious coronavirus variant and having no guarantees they will be contagious for COVID-19. Dubai is a small country where the virus can spread like wildfire.

The Coronavirus has started an economic third world war

The imminent fall of the stock market has already begun. The U.S. and European markets are headed for collapse and I predict they will continue to decline over the next few months losing half of their present overinflated value. The fact there is no solution to the coronavirus in place and the failure of the current vaccines coming to light by this fall will further the downfall of the markets despite the present misinformation campaign. The market could bottom out at the end of 2022 at one tenth of its present value.

Who will the winners be in this scenario? No one knows for sure, but one thing is certain, China is well positioned. Who will be the losers? America has been exposed and needs to put a plan into action now. Backing their currency with the silver standard would be a great place to start. Cryptocurrencies like Bitcoin will have close to zero value in a market collapse of this magnitude.

As for Europe, the EU will disintegrate economically and break up. All of these globalist billionaires could become the target of rebellious, left-wing fanatical groups putting their safety at risk. Poverty could rise to such a level that will create national security concerns resulting in military presence everywhere. Many will blame capitalism for the depression and will push for a much more liberal economy which will make poverty even worse.

America is facing a serious national security threat

Throughout history, economic depression has been the main trigger that has started wars. By the end of 2021, the mishandling of the coronavirus endemic by western governments will prove to be economically catastrophic. A war between countries does not necessarily need to be initiated by a physical conflict; a virus could be the initiator. The previous U.S. administration's Operation Warp Speed has failed us by putting the bulk of the resources into a vaccine and neglecting the development of therapeutics and effective rapid testing support.

It is more important to save lives than save face; government leaders and the scientific community need to change their vaccines strategy

As I have previously pointed since I began writing op-eds on the pandemic in February 2020, vaccines have not worked for MERS, SARS, HIV, Malaria, etc. Why do we think a vaccine will work now for COVID-19? Today, the U.K.'s new Kent virus strain is 35% more transmissible and has already spread to 50 countries. What will be in store for us tomorrow? The misinformation spin machine led by the Pharma's, the Silicon Valley social networking platforms and the mainstream media is still pushing the vaccine narrative.

The coronavirus vaccines will not be effective. Once a person is infected with the coronavirus, a mutant will develop against the vaccine creating a new variant and rendering the vaccine useless for future candidates.

February 2020 Op-ed <https://ceocfointerviews.com/voippaloped0220.html>

November 2020 Op-ed <https://www.ceocfointerviews.com/emilmalakoped1120.html>

December 2020 Op-ed <https://ceocfointerviews.com/emilmalakoped1220.html>

February 2021 Op-ed <https://ceocfointerviews.com/emilmalakoped0221.html>

February 2021 VOIP-Pal Patent Litigation Op-ed

<https://www.ceocfointerviews.com/emilmalakoped121920.html>

Emil Malak Literary Works

La Rosa Musical Operetta

https://emil-malak.com/la_rosa_audio.html

Sadness with Joy Volume I & II

<https://emil-malak.com/portfolio/01-Sadness%20with%20Joy%20volume%201&2.pdf>

Link to other Literary Works by Emil Malak
<https://emil-malak.com/portfolio.html>

Named inventor on two patents:

1. Mobile Gateway
2. Electrostatic Desalinization and Water Purification

Topics for Future Articles

As always, my future articles will present well researched opinions based solely on the facts. I will not take any side; I will just present the raw facts.

Artificial intelligence will run our court system within 20 years

IBM's supercomputer Watson was developed to run our day to day lives. Already in limited use in the judicial system, Watson will eventually completely take over the court system without political, emotional, or personal bias. It will deal strictly with the law and the facts, nothing more. IBM's Watson is the future in the 21 Century.

I hope the Supreme Court will take up the Alice 101 matter and stand up for patent owners once again as they have done in the past

Lastly, artificial intelligence and machine learning are software enabled innovations and are considered abstract under Alice 101. Artificial intelligence and machine learning are rapidly expanding and within the next two decades will be dominating most aspects of our lives, including playing a major role in the courtroom. IBM Watson is already making its way into the courtroom and one day this kind of technology will be commonplace in ALL court proceedings <https://www.ibm.com/blogs/client-voices/judge-ibm-watson/>. Parties in a case will simply enter factual information to be examined and interpreted by software programs which would make recommendations based on the data. Adding the human element, a judge and jury will review the computer recommendations and render a final judgement. Decisions will be factually based and delivered in a speedy and efficient manner. Imagine a patent infringement case, a divorce case, or a commercial litigation case being decided in just one year by the future "Watson Judge!" Whether we like it or not, artificial intelligence/software technology is the future of everything.

As I write these predictions of the expansion of artificial intelligence results of a new study are being announced regarding the use of artificial intelligence in diagnosing breast cancer with better results and accuracy than human radiologists <https://news.yahoo.com/artificial-intelligence-programme-detects-breast-203441450.html>. Early detection and treatment before the cancer spreads to other areas is critical to increase the patient's survival rate. Additionally, cancer treatment algorithms are already being used in leading cancer facilities to depict best practices for care delivery and determining the approach for evaluating, diagnosing, and providing treatment recommendations and ongoing surveillance for various malignancies <https://www.mdanderson.org/for-physicians/clinical-tools-resources/clinical-practice-algorithms/cancer-treatment-algorithms.html>. We can all see a future where companies continue to invent technology to solve life's problems. Unfortunately, anti-patent decisions made by many courts would consider these types of technologies abstract and unpatentable. They are taking us backwards and have made owning a patent no longer an asset for a small inventor or entity but rather it is a liability.

Coronavirus has created a massive redistribution of wealth in the west

The super wealthy are getting wealthier, the middle class is being phased out, the poor are becoming needier and poorer.

Socialist and liberal school and university teachers are brain washing and indoctrinating our children and youth into their beliefs. a Hollywood, the culture race, black lives matter, Antifa, the woke crowd are being promoted and controlled by social media. But who controls governments and social media, the super wealthy? The naïve socialists on the left are being used by the super-rich as a tool to achieve their objective and have control. These particular billionaires have a completely different agenda. It is not about money but power, and their money affords them the opportunity to consolidate power. Unless we all wake up, social media giants and these particular billionaires will end up getting the world into serious trouble.

All these socialist groups are themselves racist, now we see them promoting all these idealist theories against white people.

Remember we all immigrated to the west, which was predominately white and got great opportunities. I, for a start am extremely grateful to the western white people for giving me such an opportunity. The majority of white people today are as racist as you and me.

These socialist moron groups, by promoting equality, are racist. Just treat people equal and focus on creating wealth for your family.

It is not about socialism, communism, liberalism, it is about yielding power behind the puppet politicians, wake up.

Look at Italy, use to be a great industrial leader, now since the left liberal socialists took over, it is almost bankrupt.

My advice to the north of Italy, separate, secede from the lazy and corrupt south for the sake of your own children future, the same separation will take place with other European countries sooner than you think.

The west needs a strong man like Putin

I am a supporter of President Putin for one reason, he provides stability to an otherwise unstable region of the world. Russia has more than 120 ethnic groups, many with their own national territories, speaking some 100 languages all living under Russian authority. The west is making a mistake by romancing Russian dissident Alexei Navalny who naively believes in his mission to save Russia. Only strong Russia will save Russia. The Soviet Union's biggest mistake was having a weak man like Michael Gorbachev destroy its power base by applying such great words like glasnost (openness and transparency) and perestroika (restructuring of soviet and economic system) which resulted in the disintegration of the Soviet Union.

We do not want to repeat of what happened under a man I consider having been one of the worst American presidents in history, George Walker Bush, the 43rd U.S. president (2001-2009). The invasion of Iraq by Bush 43 was a lethal mistake when you consider the unnecessary loss of life, the financial cost and where Iraq is today.

The West needs to accept that our form of Democracy will never be accepted in these countries, and we must stop trying to force it on them. They will only ever respect a strong leader. Have we not learned anything from the mess we caused in Iraq, Libya, and Syria? Saddam Hussein and Muammar Ghaddafi did a much better job controlling their countries and had a better standard of living for their people than what we have seen so far in the aftermath of their removal from power. Looking at these two countries today we see massive immigration into Europe because of the vacuum recreated with their ousters. America and Europe should support President Putin in every way possible. Russia needs a strong leader like Putin, who is patriotic and cares for his people. Bringing Russia into NATO would be the smartest move.

A new world is being forced upon us; totalitarian regimes are controlling social media; What kind of society is the west becoming?

A. Transgenderism is being forced on our children

I am the father of two young girls ages 9 and 11, residing in Vancouver, Canada. Just the other day my girls came home informing me of an upcoming celebration at their school of transgender day. The teachers instructed their students to attend school that day dressed as a member of the opposite sex. Girls were told to wear pants and boys were told to wear skirts. One female teacher told the students that she will wear a moustache. Has our society gone mad?

Personally, I have no problem with anyone's sexual preference or gender identity. I am a big believer in individual rights and each person has the right to choose their own sexuality and or sexual identity. I am also a father and if one day one of my daughters were to come home and tell me she wants to live her life as a man I would be as disappointed as any other father would be, but I would never waiver in my love and support for her personal decision.

As a Christian, I was taught that a man and a woman get married and have children. The new transgender fashion is being overly promoted by teachers and fully supported and encouraged by weak politicians. No one has the courage to speak out. I am speaking out; this is wrong, and you cannot encourage our children to become transgender.

As a Canadian, I am so outraged to see the way our weak government is giving more rights to minority groups and marginalizing the majority, forcing us to follow their way of life. Maybe it is time that I look for alternatives for the sake of my two girls, Today's society lacks old fashion integrity.

Many throughout today's society including educators take it upon themselves to indoctrinate our children and force their own set of values and ideals on these young and impressionable minds. Often, teachers and others in academia are very liberal and have strong socialist leanings. They push things like transgenderism on the minds of small children that are far too young to understand what it means. They still want to play with dolls and toy cars while society insists on saddling them with such heavy topics beyond their level of understanding. Transgenderism is viewed by many as being sheik and trendy and welcomed like a new 21st century fashion.

They do the same with politics. It's not a teacher's job to take a political side, but so often they do and usually it's on the liberal, left leaning side of the political aisle, completely alienating those with conservative viewpoints. Educators need to teach civics and government and not which side of an issue students should take or whom they should vote for.

B. Controlling social media and pushing propaganda

Recently, I went to see a printer/graphic designer who I have used and done business with many times over the years. On this visit I was hoping to hire him to put together a book with the coronavirus articles I have written over the past year. He quickly shot me down and flat out refused to take the job because my articles are critical of the coronavirus vaccines. Even though I told him I am a proponent of vaccines, and I explained that my criticisms were limited to these current coronavirus vaccinations that lack historical safety data he still refused to take the job. Despite business currently being down more than 60% at the company he works for, he refused to budge. I did not complain to the business owner like many would have. I do like the man, and I feel sorry for him. a, he is simply doing the same thing being done by Twitter, Facebook, and Google. They ban content they do not like or agree with. If the person or content does not conform to their agenda, they cancel it.

C. Governments have become drug dealers.

As a Canadian this topic is near and dear to my heart. In an effort to solidify support of young voters, the inexperienced and irresponsible Canadian Prime Minister legalized marijuana without any safety guidelines such as THC concentration. As a result we now have marijuana growers competing to produce crops containing the highest THC concentrations in order to give our generation a better high and create addition to their products. After Canada blazed the trail, ignorant leaders from other western countries have followed suit and legalized marijuana without regulating THC concentration levels.

CBD, a component extracted from marijuana and hemp plants has now become the newest money-making craze; however, the same issues apply. CBD converts to THC and there are no strict guidelines regulating the amount of THC that needs to be present in CBD before it is a drug. As a result, manufacturers have no compliance standards to adhere to during the manufacturing process. Many years ago, I was introduced to the concept of CBD and naively made a significant investment in a marijuana growing farm as I was told they had the best techniques for extracting CBD, which was something I was very interested in learning about. I am a proponent of medical grade marijuana and CBD for people that truly need it for legitimate health reasons. It can be made available by prescription and contain only a minimal amount of THC, avoiding harmful effects and potential addiction. Of course, I lost my entire investment in this scam, but I did learn quite a bit about this new government supported drug dealing business. Despite the dangers, politicians continue to back this industry to gain the support of young voters and collect greater tax revenue.

D. Opioid crisis in British Columbia, Canada results in 170 monthly deaths

The liberal and socialist leaning provincial government in British Columbia has failed its citizens miserably in dealing with the growing opioid crisis. In a tough environment you need to make tough decisions, not put your head in the sand and hope for the best like what is taking place in Canada.

First, you need to stop China from exporting dangerous opioids and expose them. The Chinese are killing our children. The Canadian government should act and ban Chinese products from entering the country.

Second, they must recognize the harsh facts that these addicts have failed our society and need to be dealt in a practical manner, not with idiotic emotional solutions that harms them and all of us.

Third, stop passing out free needles. The only thing they are achieving is in creating more addicts. They are enabling them to continue towards eventual overdose and death.

Fourth, utilize the military to help take control of the situation. Let them erect accommodations outside the city boundaries that can act as health camps where addicts can receive all the appropriate health and psychological support, they need to overcome their dependency. After recovery, teach them a useful trade or provide technical training so they can earn a living and become self-sufficient. If any refuse to comply they at least die in these camps with dignity.

E. Netflix and other production companies are changing our history

As a writer myself, I am currently collaborating on my operetta with a writer and producer who is also a close friend. During the process I was informed that we needed to work in a writer's room with other ethnic writers if we are to introduce content regarding slavery into our work. When I asked why, I was told that Netflix as well as other production companies will require black screenwriters to be involved in my screenplay to convey how they believe black people felt during the time of slavery.

With all due respect, how the hell will any person, black, white, or otherwise be able to accurately convey the point of view of another writer? After all, writers simply express their own point of view on the subject they are writing about. And about slavery, it has been abolished in the United States for more than 150 years and no one alive today has any firsthand knowledge on what it was like to be a slave. It's always just the writer's perspective. Being black in 2021 does not automatically make someone an expert on the black experience in 1850, any more than being Egyptian makes me an expert on life in the time of the Pharaohs.

One of the newest Netflix TV series, Bridgerton has cast black actors as dukes and duchesses. To do so is historically inaccurate and incorrectly portrays history. People of all colors should be concerned with any effort to change our history. I am sure the black community would be greatly offended if Netflix decided to cast white or Asian actors as slaves during the 1800's. History is factual and must never be rewritten. We need to take the good and the bad from our past and try our best to understand it and learn from it, not change it.

F. Fallout from the coronavirus is spurring on talks of secession/separation

As a visionary, barring a drastic change in direction, I believe the new totalitarianism regimes that are taking over the west through social media will end up pushing states within countries towards secession. I can envision Texas and Florida leading the charge following the next U.S. midterm elections with other states joining soon after. In Canada, Calgary could be next. Milan and other northern Italian states could soon push for their independence. I am completely against governments taking control, but this may be a necessary evil.

Social media companies are now purposefully influencing elections according to their own agendas and many are blindly following them like sheep. In the west, social media has become more powerful and more influential than governments. Maybe the only practical solution is to regulate them and develop strict guidelines to ensure they are not exerting unfair influence or infringing on peoples' rights. If we allow them to continue to expand their control, they could lead us into a third world war. I am a free market capitalist, and do not believe in nationalization. However, social media companies have become more powerful than government and at this stage it may be too late to rein them in with regulations. Perhaps nationalization is a necessary evil in this instance.

Social media has made our young generation as dumb as rocks Climate hysteria is a pipe dream that could bankrupt us

Swedish environmental activist Greta Thunberg has been hailed as a hero by many on social media despite some idiotic ideas regarding climate change. Her proposed solutions are simplistic and idealistic and would move us backwards as a society, not forward. What we should do is to apply high tech engineering principles to reduce pollution and no longer entertain ridiculous notions of eliminating fossil fuels, like oil, gas and coal.

Many of our younger generation are living comfortably in the western world and are spending far too much time smoking legalized marijuana and begging for more stimulus checks and government handouts. They listen to rap music; trash talk the freedoms that they so foolishly take for granted and do as little as possible just to get by. Many of them suffer from a disease called laziness. Sadly, they are the product of the public school system and today's colleges and universities which are in desperate need of reform.

Some politicians are trying to exploit this youthful ignorance by lowering the voting age to 16, when they should be talking about increasing the minimum voting age from 18 years to 26 years old. A person's brain is not fully developed until at least the age of 25. Hopefully by the time they reach their mid-twenties they will have had sufficient true-life experiences and achieved a level of responsibility that will increase their understanding of the real world and perhaps they will have embraced some more old-fashioned principles. Unfortunately, many politicians think the romance of climate change is a vote getter among naïve youth. They use fear mongering tactics by scaring them into thinking the planet is on a path towards irreversible destruction in the next decade unless radical measures are taken now.

In this time of coronavirus, the last thing we need is to bankrupt ourselves spending trillions of dollars chasing unfounded climate change solutions. We need to address more important immediate issues like fixing the healthcare system and creating well-paying jobs so people can work and become more self-reliant and less dependent on the government. Can someone explain to those in the west that insist on taking draconian measures to combat climate change that we cannot erect a wall that will stop the inevitable pollution coming out of China, India and the far east from spreading through our atmosphere. The biggest ocean and environmental polluters on the planet are not the countries that are pushing for radical climate change measures in the west, but they are the eastern countries that as of now display no intent or desire to curb their destructive behavior towards the environment. Our spending billions to impose restrictions on ourselves will not stop them from continuing to dump endless trash into the oceans. Ultimately, we would be flushing billions down the toilet in a futile exercise. Even spending trillions on climate change is a hollow dream so long as those countries continue to abuse the system and the planet as they are so doing.

Together with our attempts to handle the coronavirus by investing billions into worthless vaccines, we are on the brink of bankrupting western nations by throwing billions and billions of dollars at idealistic, non-starter environmental nonsense. Many well-intentioned consumers buy Tesla automobiles because they think they are helping the environment, when you consider the massive carbon footprint it takes to manufacture a Tesla there is not much if any difference between a Tesla and regular automobile with a combustion engine. If you like Tesla's and want to save money on gas then buy one, but don't be naïve to think you are making a difference to the environment.

Egypt golden Pharaoh's parade

Thank you President Abdel Fattah Al-SISI, you are our today Pharaoh.

As a proud Egyptian, the celebration of our Pharaoh's ancestors was so spectacular. It was an unforgettable experience for the world to watch, reminisce and imagine how great was this civilization.

Finally, the grand Egyptian museum is set to open.

Everyone should watch this incredible parade and once the coronavirus is over, make sure you visit the dreamy, unique, and realistic revival of the Pharaoh's civilization. Our great Egyptian President has already started on a massive infra-structure rebuilding of Egypt that will revive its economy and as I said before Egypt will be the envy of the world sooner than we all expect.

https://www.google.com/search?q=Egyptian+golden+pharaoh+parade&rlz=1C1CHZN_enCA941CA941&oq=Egyptian+golden+pharaoh+parade&aqs=chrome..69i57&sourceid=chrome&ie=UTF-

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=bnlXW7KZI0c>

The Ethiopian Grand Renaissance Dam; is it the Ethiopians against the Pharaohs?

Is history repeating itself yet again? Does Ethiopia really believe for a second that President Al-Sisi, today's modern day Egyptian Pharaoh will allow them to block Egypt's water supplies? To avoid a looming conflict in the region, the United States, African Union, and the useless United Nations should force a legally binding agreement to be adhered to by the Ethiopians. Ethiopia needs to remember that Sudan used to be a part of Egypt. In October 1954, the President of Egypt Gamal Abdel Nasser, signed a treaty with Sudan and the British, granting Sudan their independence on January 1, 1956. Ethiopia should carefully read and review that treaty. Our Egyptian President, the pharaoh Al Sisi will never allow them to withhold the water lifeline of Egypt. The Sudanese and Egyptian people are still brothers and sisters, they will never allow Ethiopia to hold them ransom over their legal right to the water. The Ethiopian Grand Renaissance Dam is built on Egyptian historical territories.

<https://in.news.yahoo.com/egyptian-president-el-sissi-issues-084716814.html>

<https://news.yahoo.com/egypt-sudan-reject-ethiopian-proposal-213047283.html>