

Is Moderna manipulating science to promote their stock?

“The good news is that this vaccine induced antibodies,” said Anthony Fauci, director of the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases. “Not just any kind of antibodies, but neutralizing antibodies.”

Fauci, in a telephone interview, called the Moderna data “really quite promising.” Other experts sounded a note of caution over side effects. To date, Moderna has never developed a successful vaccine. These results caused the company’s stock price to rise 18% in one day, and some experts expect it can surge another 60%.

<https://markets.businessinsider.com/news/stocks/moderna-stock-price-could-surge-potential-coronavirus-vaccine-target-raise-2020-7-1029398327#>

Of Moderna’s last test subjects, only 18%, 8 out of the 45 volunteers developed neutralizing antibodies, which is comparable to the approximately 20% of recovered COVID-19 patients that carry neutralizing antibodies. So, what changed in all of the new 45 chosen volunteers suddenly showing the presence of neutralizing antibodies?

There are several questions we need to ask. Are they manipulating the data? What was the percentage of neutralizing antibodies actually present? Is 57 days long enough to determine if there is an adequate amount of neutralizing antibodies sufficient to prevent infection? What tweaks were made to "testing standards" the second time around that caused significantly different results?

Neutralizing antibodies

Science is science. How do you get 8 out of 45 in the first round of volunteers, then 45 out of 45 in the second round of new volunteers using the same vaccine? Was the second dose much larger than the first? How serious were the side effects? It seems similar when an election is rigged in a corrupt government when the incumbent president gets one hundred percent of the votes.

FDA should halt Moderna phase three clinical trials, manslaughter.

Moderna’s plan is to start phase three testing on July 27th using 30,000 volunteers. There are still too many questions that need to be answered before subjecting 30,000 people to this vaccine with the lack of solid confirmations provided from the data so far.

These volunteers will be subjected to a potentially deadly outcome if they are re-infected the second time.

<https://www.msn.com/en-us/health/medical/moderna-fires-up-covid-vaccine-race-with-promising-early-results/ar-BB16JJnL?li=BBnba9O>

<https://www.medrxiv.org/content/10.1101/2020.07.09.20148429v1>

Mutation

There is currently a possibility of a MERS-CoV outbreak taking place now in Kazakhstan. Imagine a COVID-19 patient who gets infected with MERS-CoV. The two viruses belong to the coronavirus group and could conceivably mutate causing a very strong super-virus. What will the vaccine do then? I predict this Christmas could be deadly if a genetic recombination of coronavirus and another virus from that group were to take place. It is a possibility and we must always be prepared for the worst and while being hopeful for the best.

Emil Malak
CEO & Director
VOIP-PAL

As I have stated in each of my previous articles, I am NOT a scientist, doctor, or medical expert. I am well read on this subject and I conduct ongoing research. These are only my opinions which were crafted after thorough study and discussion. I recommend everyone conduct their own inquiries and reach their own conclusions. So far, the predictions which I made in my first coronavirus op-ed from February have all come true. I invite you to read my previous articles and judge for yourself.

WARNING!! New Unspecified Outbreak Confirmed in Kazakhstan

Possible Deadly MERS Virus in Kazakhstan

In a recent statement, the Kazakhstan health ministry confirmed the presence of “viral pneumonias of unspecified etiology.”

This new virus is not COVID-19, or tests would have confirmed so. “Kazakhstani Health Department and other agencies are conducting comparative research and have not defined the nature of the pneumonia virus,” the statement said.

Based on the region and its history, some experts believe this unspecified virus could be MERS-CoV, (Middle East respiratory syndrome coronavirus) Middle Eastern respiratory disease (MERS) is a viral respiratory disease caused by a novel coronavirus. According the World Health Organization’s website, MERS symptoms include fever, cough, and shortness of breath. Pneumonia is common, but not always present. Gastrointestinal symptoms, including diarrhea, have also been reported.

President Trump could take action and deny entrance from the region

Some laboratory-confirmed cases of MERS-CoV infection are reported as asymptomatic, meaning that they do not have any clinical symptoms, yet they are positive for MERS-CoV infection following a laboratory test. Most of these asymptomatic cases have been detected following aggressive contact tracing of a laboratory-confirmed case. Approximately 35% of reported patients with MERS-CoV infection have died.

MERS-CoV is spread through close contact, often infecting those living with or caring for infected people. It is a zoonotic virus which originated from dromedary camels. It is transmitted from infected camels to humans and exists in the Middle East, Africa and South Asia.

All borders with Kazakhstan must be closed immediately in order to contain this mysterious virus. Europe and the United States must deny entrance to anyone coming from this region.

The scientific community needs to conduct an immediate investigation to confirm if Kazakhstan’s new viral outbreak is indeed MERS-CoV. In light of the current COVID-19 pandemic, a global outbreak of MERS-CoV would be disastrous.

Could the coronavirus that originated in Wuhan have mutated into this new outbreak? Imagine if this were to spread to the west in addition to the current COVID-19 pandemic. The world must work together to contain this Kazakhstan virus and not allow it to leave the region.

<https://keyt.com/news/national-world/2020/07/10/chinese-officials-warn-of-unknown-pneumonia-in-kazakhstan-that-is-deadlier-than-coronavirus/>
https://www.who.int/news-room/fact-sheets/detail/middle-east-respiratory-syndrome-coronavirus-\(mers-cov\))

BREAKING NEWS

A Hong Kong scientist Dr. Li-Meng Yan who specializes in virology and immunology escaped Hong Kong and is blowing the whistle on China's novel coronavirus coverup. Dr. Yan is in fear for her life and currently is in hiding. She told a reporter, "The reason I came to the U.S. is because I deliver the message of the truth of COVID."

Is Kazakhstan covering up an outbreak as many believe China has done? The world cannot afford to make the same mistake this time around.

<https://www.foxnews.com/world/chinese-virologist-coronavirus-cover-up-flee-hong-kong-whistleblower>

Has COVID-19 Become Ten Times More Contagious Through a Single Mutation?

A recent study of COVID-19 published in the highly respected journal, Cell, found the virus has become much more contagious and able to spread faster. The spike protein in the virus seems to have mutated into a single amino acid exchange mutation. In plain language, the newly mutated strain is now much more infections than the previous.

Researchers at the The Scripps Research Institute have found that the strains spreading so quickly in Europe and the U.S. have a mutated S "spike" protein that makes it about 10 times more infectious than the strain originally identified in Asia. The big question now is, if a simple, single amino acid could cause such a drastic increase in the contagion, what will happen after the next mutation?

<https://www.pharmalive.com/mutated-covid-19-viral-strain-in-u-s-and-europe-10-times-more-contagious-than-original-strain/>

Coronavirus is now a part of our lives; we have no choice but to open up the economy

The next stage of COVID-19 has already begun, and we must deal with the virus head on. We can no longer afford to shut down states every time there is an increase in new cases. The strategy must change in order to accommodate living and dealing with the virus.

My previous op-eds warned of these mutations. The latest outbreaks in Florida, Texas, Arizona, Washington, and California validate the study's findings, as we are seeing the beginning of a mutated wave of infection. This time around the virus is spreading more rapidly than the first less efficient, contagious strain. The increased infectiousness could also be the reason why the current wave of new cases is affecting much greater numbers of young people than did the first wave. COVID-19 is not over; it is getting worse.

While the number of cases is up, there is room for optimism. The current recovery rate is higher and deaths from COVID-19 are dropping. Hospitals are now more experienced and better equipped to treat new patients. Additionally, the average age of the most recent wave of new cases is lower. Younger patients have stronger immune systems better able to battle the virus. Government leaders need to reassess their strategies and act accordingly. So far, the west has been unable to flatten the curve of new infections; the virus has turned the curve of new cases upward.

Stop the coronavirus from taking over your country, continuous testing is necessary

In one of my articles, I presented an idea to convert ambulances into mobile testing labs. In light of the new increased outbreak I am once again suggesting that mobile testing labs be placed everywhere and weekly testing, contact tracing and isolation be implemented. Failure to do so could result in the economy being halted once again. Increased transmission of the virus could also lead to more civil unrest. I had also proposed opening up international travel by requiring travelers to show proof of a negative test within 48 hours of flight

Reopen schools, colleges and universities, this fall

It's time to reopen our schools and institutions of learning. This can be done safely while adhering to CDC guidelines on social distancing and regular handwashing. Hand sanitizing stations can be placed throughout the schools and all students could be tested for the virus monthly. Legislation is needed to give schools immunity in order to protect them from potential liability from the spread of the virus.

We must learn to live with coronavirus the same way we live with other lethal and deadly diseases

Daily we live with such illnesses as coronary artery disease, lower respiratory infections, chronic obstructive pulmonary disease, lung cancer, breast cancer, other cancers, diabetes, and the list goes on. We have no choice but to accept the fact that we must deal with the coronavirus as we do with other serious medical issues. We have to adapt until a reliable therapeutic solution is developed, since any hope for a vaccine is out of the question. The economy must remain open. Just like we do not shut down the economy because we are having too many strokes or heart attacks, we cannot shut down because of this virus.

The hope of developing a vaccine is a lie

Once again, I find myself being critical of those medical experts telling us we are on the verge of a vaccine. A vaccine for this virus is not possible and a serious scientist will recognize why that is. Promises of a vaccine are nothing more than a money grab by pharmaceutical and biotech companies, knowing full well it is impossible to guarantee neutralizing antibodies. Based on what we know about COVID-19 and the lack of neutralizing antibodies, achieving an effective vaccine is not possible, the vaccine itself could actually be very dangerous and create a deadly super infection if the vaccinated person were to be re-infected with the virus. To date there has never been a successful vaccine developed for SARS, MERS, or HIV despite more than 500 failed attempts. We have watched the virus mutate and become ten times more infectious. How can we now expect a vaccine to be effective if the spike protein mutates yet again?

I believe the administration is very sincere in its belief of a coming vaccine, but they have been completely misled by the pharmaceutical and biotech companies, and others with conflicting interests.

Could the coronavirus mutate into a 21st century Spanish flu?

Could COVID-19 become a modern-day version of the Spanish Flu? We certainly hope this will never happen, but scientists need to address this devastating possibility. The fact that many positive COVID-19 cases are asymptomatic adds a disastrous element to a possible second deadly mutation of the spike protein. As with the Spanish flu, it could potentially wipe out up to 25% or more of infected patients.

Democratic States have totally failed in protecting Seniors

The Democrats and the liberal fake media at CNN, MSNBC, ABC, NBC, CBS, The Washington Post and The New York Times etc. have told many lies about the virus, but they are especially busy lying to Florida voters and their large segment of seniors. They are trying to make it look like Republican led Florida, which happens to be a crucial swing state in the upcoming presidential election, has mismanaged their handling of the pandemic, when in reality Florida stands as a shining example.

The leftwing media and Democrats are lying because they know how important Florida will be in the November election. They spend a lot of time trying to paint Florida as the new epicentre of the virus, but the numbers do not lie, and the numbers show that Governor Ron DeSantis has protected his large and very vulnerable elderly population better than any other governor.

Florida seniors are being protected by Republican Governor Ron DeSantis

Florida is the 3rd most populous state in the country with 21 million people, of which 20.5% are over 65 years old. In spite of those large numbers Florida's COVID-19 mortality rate of 1.8% is lower than every single state run by a Democrat governor with the exception of Kansas's 1.74% mortality rate. To put that into perspective, Kansas has only one eighth the population of Florida, and only 480,000 seniors compared to Florida's 4.4 million. Florida also receives many more out of state visitors than Kansas, exponentially increasing the risk of importing the infection.

Overall, seniors and the population at large residing in Democrat run states have fared far worse than the national average. The worst ten states in terms of mortality rate are all led by Democrat governors and are higher than the national average.

Mortality Rates

Michigan	9.5%
Connecticut	9.2%
New Jersey	8.6%
New York	8%
Massachusetts	7.7%
Pennsylvania	7.2%
Rhode Island	5.6%
Colorado	5%
Louisiana	5%
Illinois	4.8%
United States	4.5%

Across the board, the largest percentage of COVID-19 deaths has occurred in people 65 and older. A New York Times report estimated that 43 percent of the nation's total deaths from COVID-19 were connected to long-term care facilities, with almost 6,500 fatalities reported among residents and staff at facilities in New York. The media elevated Governor Cuomo as the greatest leader in handling the crisis while trying to make Governor DeSantis out to be a buffoon. Cuomo was so well thought of, there were even calls for him to replace Joe Biden as the Democrat nominee. In May, I wrote about the disastrous handling of the virus by New York's governor and media darling, Andrew Cuomo. The bloom has since come off the rose and even leaders in New York within his own party are calling for an investigation of Cuomo's actions for ordering infected seniors back into the their nursing homes.

<https://www.newsweek.com/florida-covid-19-spikes-approach-new-york-april-peak-one-tenth-deaths-1513966>

As a 68-year-old man and senior citizen there is no way I could possibly believe the false propoganda being put out by the Democrat party on how they say they care for the elderly. Their track record tells another story. The choice in the upcoming election is very clear. Only President Trump and the Republican party have proven to be the party that protects senior citizens and Christianity.

As a Canadian, I am feeling the effects of living in a country with a weak and inexperienced socialist prime minister that is moving the country further and further to the left and transforming Canada into a failed socialist state. The provincial government of British Columbia where I reside continues to heap more and more taxes on businesses. Their out of control taxation is like a disease and is crippling business making it increasingly difficult for them to stay afloat.

Canadians also have to deal with leftwing liberal news media and Marxist teaching in our schools and universities that use identity politics to divide us. Fringe and minority groups rule the roost while the silent majority is left behind. I am outspoken about this because I care for the futures of my and your children.

Most seniors like me believe in and abide by old fashion conservative principles

- Honour your country and respect the flag
- Stand tall for the National Anthem
- Respect your nation's history and learn from it
- Do not destroy statues or monuments

When the anthem plays, and the flag is unfurled you stand to honour your country. If you kneel, Marxism wins and the sacrifice of those that gave their lives for the freedom we all enjoy is disrespected, and the national pride that should unite us, is stolen from us. President Trump also believes in these long, cherished principles. He will uphold them and fight those that are trying to cancel our culture and rewrite history.

President Trump could stop the destruction from inside out

Organizations like ANTIFA and Black Lives Matter are destructive and dangerous. Recently, President Trump designated ANTIFA as a terrorist organization. That has not stopped either of them from being the leading destructive forces behind the recent string of violence permeating the major cities across the United States.

Democrat run cities are in the process of defunding and in some cases dismantling their police departments amidst a rash of violent crimes and soaring murder rates. This past 4th of July weekend was probably the bloodiest ever in the United States. Among this weekend's casualties were multiple innocent young children.

A bloody 4th of July weekend in Democratic Governed States, defunding the police equals no safety; anarchy, violence, chaos and Marxism will rule the day

In Atlanta, 8-year-old Secoriea Turner was shot and killed while riding with her mother and a friend, for entering a parking lot where a group of people illegally placed barriers. When they crossed the barrier someone in the group opened fire and senselessly murdered little Secoriea. The young victim's father Secoriya Williamson, said at a press conference, "They say Black Lives Matter. You killed your own. You killed your own this time. Just because of a barrier? They killed my baby because she crossed a barrier and made a U-turn. You killed a child. She didn't do nothing to nobody."

Chicago experienced another weekend of violence and murder. Over 70 people were shot, at least 14 of them fatally, over the Fourth of July weekend in Mayor Lori Lightfoot's (D) Chicago. Among the dead were a 14-year-old boy, and 7-year-old Natalia Wallace, who was shot in the head while outside at a family gathering. Their deaths came one weekend after a one-year-old and ten-year-old were shot dead in Lightfoot's Chicago. Chicago has experienced a 75% increase in shootings for the month of June 2020 and had 78% more murders in June 2020 versus June 2019.

In Philadelphia, at least 7 were killed and another 24 shot and wounded during Fourth of July weekend in Philadelphia. One of the weekend's fatalities was a 6-year-old boy, who was struck in the chest by a bullet while playing inside a home with other children. The boy was one of five victims killed on Sunday alone.

New York City, that just days ago celebrated the slashing of a billion dollars from their police budget reported 44 separate shootings with 63 victims over the holiday weekend. Nearly 40 of the weekend's shootings took place in broad daylight. One of the shootings caught on video showed a father gunned down crossing a Bronx street while holding his 6-year-old daughter's hand. Additionally, two NYPD officers were fired upon over the weekend while driving a department cruiser in the Bronx. Over the same three days in 2019, New York City only had 16 incidents and 21 victims.

Crime in these Democrat run cities is ravaging out of control while Democrat leaders remain silent. Where are condemnations from Joe Biden, Chuck Schumer, Nancy Pelosi, the Squad and Black Lives Matter? Are they all a bunch of cowards hiding in their basements? They certainly had a lot to say after other recent high-profile deaths where the accused killers were white. Why the silence now? Are they afraid to speak out against their fellow Democrats? Is this wanton lawlessness what we can expect if Joe Biden is elected? If the Democrats take power in November, the United States will be headed towards self-destruction. Many Americans will not stand by and let their country sink into Marxism without a fight. The possibility of Americans fighting another civil war is not farfetched. I recently suggested in my last op-ed the possibility America can split into two federations.

ANTIFA and Black Lives Matter are extensions of the Democratic party

ANTIFA and Black Lives Matter are not fighting for justice or equality and certainly not for peace. They are using race to divide and conquer. If their objective were to make black lives better, they would be fighting the crime waves in these cities that are tragically affecting the black community in disproportionate numbers.

ANTIFA and Black Lives Matter are anti-white Marxist groups that prey on the naïve and the uninformed, mobilizing young adults by tricking them into thinking they are fighting for equality, when they are actually fighting to cancel American culture and transform the United States into socialism. They want to dismantle Christianity and they despise everything about the USA, especially the traditional family.

Led by admitted “trained Marxists”, the organization Black Lives Matter openly states on their website that they stand for tearing down the traditional family:

"We disrupt the Western-prescribed nuclear family structure requirement by supporting each other as extended families and “villages” that collectively care for one another, especially our children, to the degree that mothers, parents, and children are comfortable." <https://blacklivesmatter.com/what-we-believe/>

Another disturbing fact is that the Black Lives Matter network openly praises the "revolution" of the totalitarian, Communist, mass murderer Fidel Castro, as can be seen from the eulogy they published after his death. Among the praise and adulation they heaped upon the murderous Cuban dictator that ruined millions of Cuban lives was a show of appreciation for his providing refuge to a number of named convicted cop killers, including Mama Assata Shakur, who they said "continues to inspire us."

They go on to say, "As Fidel ascends to the realm of the ancestors, we summon his guidance, strength, and power as we recommit ourselves to the struggle for universal freedom. Fidel Vive!"

How can any person with even a shred of common sense think there is anything good about this evil Marxist organization? They are not well intended nor are they fighting for justice. This is a rogue revolutionary group whose sole mission is to bring America down!

<https://medium.com/@BlackLivesMatterNetwork/lessons-from-fidel-black-lives-matter-and-the-transition-of-el-comandante-c11ee5e51fb0>

The Democrats continue to move further and further towards socialism. This upcoming presidential election will be the most significant in the 244-year history of the United States of America. The stakes could not be higher. We need President Trump to win in order to preserve the values upon which America was founded.

Economy

Every voter wants to provide a decent living for their family. Only in a thriving economy could that dream be realized. Does anyone really believe for a moment that Joe Biden, useless Nancy Pelosi, crying Chuck Schumer and their socialist "Squad" will steer the United States back into economic prosperity? Prior to the coronavirus, at this year's State of the Union address President Trump announced, "African-American, Hispanic-American and Asian-American unemployment have all reached their lowest levels ever recorded." The country had more jobs than people to fill them. President Trump did it once and he is the only one that can do it again.

I add this word of caution to the President. Although I still believe the economy will be the main driver in the upcoming election, I must sound the alarm bells. If the coronavirus numbers continue to climb and the current trend is not reversed, voters might very well blame the administration and support his opponent. I recommend the president change some of his election advisors and carefully reevaluate the current coronavirus strategy.

Coronavirus Op-ed February 25, 2020.

<https://ceocfointerviews.com/voippaloped0220.html>

Coronavirus Interview 1

<https://www.ceocfointerviews.com/voippal0220.html>

Coronavirus Interview 2

<https://ceocfointerviews.com/voippal031120.html>

Coronavirus Op-ed April 9, 2020

<https://ceocfointerviews.com/voippaloped2040920.html>

Coronavirus Op-ed April 20, 2020

<https://ceocfointerviews.com/voippaloped4042020.html>

Coronavirus Op-ed May 6, 2020

<https://www.ceocfointerviews.com/voippaloped6050620.html>

Coronavirus Op-ed May 27, 2020

<https://www.ceocfointerviews.com/voippaloped7052620.html>